12, Putnam's active Covid case number dropped to 324, the lowest since August 16. The county's active case number has been declining since hitting 1,167 on September 16.

While shrinking case numbers are encouraging, Putnam remains red on the DHHR Covid Alert Map because the current infection rate of 62.51 per 100,000 population is 2.5 times the 24.99 rate required for an orange designation. Putnam is currently one of 18 West Virginia counties with a "red" designation.

The vaccine is effective and has played a large role in Putnam's dropping numbers but the vaccine has not been able to defeat the coronavirus. There have been a number of breakthrough cases in which fully individuals vaccinated have contracted the virus. In most instances, the breakthrough cases are mild and followed by quick recoveries but there have been 196 breakthrough deaths. 156 of those deaths were individuals older that 71.

The DHHR isrecommending shots for individuals with health issues who have On Tuesday, October been fully vaccinated for six months. In total, there have been 14,373 breakthrough cases in West Virginia. Some fully individuals vaccinated are more susceptible to breakthrough infections than others.

A study published October 5 by World Psychology has determined individuals that dependent upon alcohol, cocaine, opioids, tobacco or marijuana are twice as likely to be breakthrough victims than individuals who not experience substance abuse disorder (SUD). Those without SUD have a 3.6% chance of a breakthrough infection. Individuals with SUD experience breakthrough infections 7 percent of the time. Heavy marijuana users have a 7.8 percent breakthrough rate.

 Spot testing results reveal that all breakthrough cases in Putnam County can be attributed to the Delta variant. The DHHR does not provide county by county breakthrough case numbers.

Covid vaccinations can be obtained at most Putnam pharmacies at no booster out of pocket cost.

Granny had taken a life's savings of six hundred dollars and borrowed one hundred, fifty dollars from her brother, and the little homestead was purchased. Life was hard and luxuries were few; but the loan was prepaid upon sale of a tobacco crop and a milk cow, making the entire indebtedness of seven hundred, fifty dollars free and clear. The soil was not very fertile and the hills were for the most part untillable; but the soil was good enough to raise tobacco to sell, corn for the cows and good vegetables to eat and preserve for the winter and early spring. The steep hillsides made enough pasture for the one or two cows; and the rich milk and yellow butter were plentiful. Sometimes, though, the butter was not so yellow. In wintertime,

Putnam County Students' Work On Display at W.Va. Capitol

West Virginia Attorney General Patrick Morrisey announced his office has displayed artwork by students from Putnam County at the State Capitol building, showcasing efforts to raise awareness of opioid abuse in the Attorney General's most recent Kids Kick Opioids design contest.

The local entries on display were created by Delilah Pava, Shelby Eddy, Belle Martin, Abby Rausa and Cameron Kirk. The Putnam County students' artwork is joined by that of Kiley Casto, Layken Rylee Gunnoe, Bayla Harrison, Katelyn Foster, Melia Chikombero and Kailyn Kolar of Kanawha County.

Their artwork will remain on display through October 17.

"Drug a b u s e needlessly claims too many lives. Our hope is the entries from these artistic students will bring greater awareness and change, and touch the minds and hearts of those who view them at the Capitol," Attorney General Morrisey said. "These entries reveal not only the immense creativity and talent of our students - in some instances, their designs also show the heartbreaking situations that some students experience at home."

The designs on display were created during the 2020-2021 school year by students then studying at the following schools: Andrew Jackson Middle School, Chesapeake Elementary School, Cross Lanes Elementary School, Hurricane Middle School and Winfield Middle School.

Her design appeared in newspapers as the Attorney General's latest public service announcement in July and remains on the office's website, along with that of statewide runner-up Caitlin Modesitt, of Ravenswood Middle School in Jackson County.

Regional winning designs will be displayed on rotation with other regions at the Capitol through late November.

Kids Kick Opioids represents one of many initiatives through which the Attorney General has sought to combat West Virginia's drug overdose death rate, including a lawsuit against the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration that achieved sweeping reforms to the nation's drug quota system.

The Attorney General also has combated the opioid crisis with civil litigation, multistate initiatives, funding to target opioid abuse, criminal prosecutions, new technology, engagement with the faith-based community and education.

The West Virginia Board of Pharmacy, West Virginia Association of School Nurses and the Capitol Police assisted the Attorney General in judging the public service announcement contest.

I could probably look at the past columns I have written (I have a book of them that I used for my project getting my Master's in 2007, but I don't have any others) and recycle the ones for fall. Always the same. FUN... FALL... FOOTBALL... ALMOST HEAVEN West Virginia... my favorite place to be in the autumn time... crisp cool nights and cooler days... summer fades and Autumn comes... the best time of the year...

I don't have cable or the basic channels... I don't have television except HULU and YOU TUBE... thus, I don't get football games anymore... it is more fun watching in real life or with others anyway... not so much just this MOM and NANA sitting in front of a game... I do check the scores and highlights on YOU TUBE... but I remember the football games... all of my life I have enjoyed them...

Starting with junior high... high school... and all through the years... watching and attending... love going to Hurricane High Homecoming and WVU Homecoming... sitting in the stands... watching the band play... those were fun days. I do not care for NFL at all... except when Peyton Manning played... then I loved those games...

Fun in West Virginia during this season... driving to Hawk's Nest to see the leaves changing... Summersville in the fall... gorgeous... weeks spent at Watoga State Park, Babcock, Blackwater Falls, and other places...the smell of the woodfires... walking in the woods, shuffling of the leaves... when Covid is better, I plan to go to West Virginia in the Autumn of the year and stav at a state nark

If any of my readers plan to go up into the mountains... don't miss the overlook at Hawk's Nest... the little souvenir shop... the lodge has food... and Montgomery, on the way, has a little pizza joint with to die for food... drive on up to Summersville ... the mountains are splendid... the Shoney's there has food we are used to... from the days when Shoney's was everywhere... awww... takes me back...

The Mill at Babcock is worth the drive...New River Bridge trails... Pipestem State Park... so many things to do outside... don't have to be around tons of people inside to have a good time... I remember... I miss those places...

When the children were small, we took them to West Virginia (when we didn't live there) to State Parks yearly... Nathan first swam in the water at Babcock... so did Kathy... cold brrrr... even after we moved back, we went skiing at Canaan... when my grand girls were younger, my daughter and I took them to some of my favorite places... we stayed at Blackwater Falls and Canaan... the voungest wants to do it again... the boys have been to West Virginia several times... they go each year... into the mountains and stay in homes they rent...they love going also...

Living in West Virginia gives one the sense of place ... of belonging... of being West Virginia strong... mountaineers forever... even hillbillies... growing up there...coming back...I remember in the early 1970's when our pastor told a joke from the pulpit... He said: "In Heaven, there are several rooms... one for the Baptists (which we were) and one for the other denominations... a special room with chairs and ropes... that room is for those from West Virginia because they always want to go back home ... " Somewhat irreverent I know... but for these young West Virginian transplants to Ohio... it resonated with truth... we knew we would return to our roots... I have moved back several times to my home... I miss it... yet... I am happy wherever I live... Fall... fun... football... whether one is leaf peeping in the mountains, attending high school or college football, going to Bridge Day ... touring the Pioneer Farm in Huntington... soccer games...drives along the lake in Summersville... whatever one does... it is memorable because after all it is in West Virginia... the most beautiful place ever... with the most welcoming people... friends stay friends always... family is close... school mates stay in touch... it is the best of the best because the way we were is the way we are... always West Virginians at heart... West Virginia Strong...

PSC Approves Continued Operation of Attorney General Morrisey Urges Financial Three Coal-fired Power Plants Aid Seekers to Protect Information

The Public Service amount that results from Commission has approved Power Appalachian Company and Wheeling Company's Power request to keep the Amos, Mountaineer, and Mitchell plants operational until at least 2040.

The PSC Order will not immediately affect the power bills of West Virginia customers. The original Order in this case resulted in a rate increase that would add approximately $2.64 per month to the current bill of a residential customer who uses 1,000 kWh per month. Any additional the Order will require the companies a further proceeding to recover the costs of implementing the upgrades.

The Order points out that benefits of the plants' continued operation to the state's economy are considerable. Direct employment at the plants; use of West Virginia coal; state, county and local taxes related to operating generation plants; and related employment in businesses supporting the plants and the coal industry cannot be discounted or overlooked. The Commission also considered the reliability of fuel secure base load generation capacity in making its decision.

The Order is the result of Virginia and Kentucky refusing to approve the Coal Combustion Residue and Effluent Limitation Guideline upgrades required for the plants' continued operation. The Commission determined that if those two states will not share the cost of the upgrades, they will not be permitted to use the capacity and energy produced by the plants.

For more information, go to the PSC website at www.psc.state.wv.us and refer to Case No. 20-1040-E-CN.

Wants to Return Lost Money Dear Editor,

A long, long time ago I think I was at Kmart in St Albans at Easter time. I don't know why I was there: I didn't have a dime. I came out to the parking lot and there laid a good bit of money. I Have Learned A Lot This Year... Submitted by Myra Simmons

I learned that things don't always turn out the way you planned, or the way you think they should.

And I have learned that there are things that go wrong that don't always get fixed or get put back together the way they were before.

I have learned that some broken things stay broken, and I have learned that you can get through bad times and keep looking for better ones, as long as you have people who love you.

Nothing lasts forever.

sometimes it was almost white. But it was good stirred up with sorghum molasses and eaten with saucer-sized biscuits on a cold, wintery morning about daylight.

I spent many a happy day at Granny's house before she left her little home. And I learned many things, too. I learned that one of the most interesting things in the world was a wooden salt box which hung near the kitchen window full of coarse salt. I learned that coarse salt is the best-tasting salt in the world on fresh, red tomatoes and crisp green cucumbers. I learned about the unutterablydelicious aroma of greenbean coffee roasting in the oven and the sheer joy of grinding that coffee in the coffee mill—just enough for each pot full of boilinghot, strong coffee with each and every meal. I learned about the absolute, unadulterated power in a cup of black coffee made with fresh-ground beans.

I learned to eat groundhog (which tasted like "chicken") and turtle (which tasted like "chicken") but I never thought they tasted like chicken. I suspect I was told about the similarity because I might consider those two delicacies more palatable to my untrained taste buds. I could never learn to relish the taste of possum even if it was parboiled and roasted with a pan of sweet potatoes. I did love rabbit gravy and the biscuits, though.

Life was rustic, work was hard, but still there was lots of fun. I learned the fun of poking in a crawfish hole and being reprimanded for it. I learned how to call a doodle-bug from its hole. And I learned how to take twigs and sticks and wrap scraps of brightly-colored cloth around them and love them as much as the pretty dolls I had at home. I learned how to take little blocks of wood and make me up the hill to Peach Ridge Church, where the funeral was conducted. It was warm weather and I was wearing a little dress with a yellow waist and a checked skirt. The sashes were sewn to the sides and tied into a bow in the back. It rained: and although the undertaker had a big, black hearse, the steep red clay road to the church was deeply rutted and vehicular traffic would have been impossible. The horses struggled to pull the weight up the hill; and the rain made dreary, desolate rivulets in the tracks. I was sad and seemed to me as if even the heavens were weeping. I suppose that Granny and her step-son lived on Cow Creek for about a decade, picking blackberries from her brother Doc's field across the road and picking creasy greens in the bottoms on their and Tom Bird's farms. There were plenty of apples, pears and white cling peaches; and there was more than sufficient vegetables in the garden for canning and pickling beans and corn, making huge jars of kraut, chow-chow, pickled green tomatoes, and the everpresent jars of cinnamony apple butter. The smoke house was well-stocked with smoked hams and shoulders and fifty-gallon cans of home-rendered lard. There was canned sausage in the cellar and gallon crocks of rich milk in the process of clabbering to just the right consistency for churning. The flour barrel was almost always full, as was the meal barrel; and there was coffee, salt, sugar, soda and baking powder in the tall kitchen 'safe".

Granny's happy, rewarding, life at her home, however, was not destined to last. When another step-son and his family moved in at the little house, conditions became unbearable for Granny to live there any longer, so my parents went there, told her to pack up and come to our home in Hurricane. Granny said that she would, but that she had promised her brother to stay with him and his family for awhile because of the illness of her brother's wife. Her sisterin-law died; and Granny moved to our house and changed her entire life. But her outlook on the necessity of squirreling up food never changed for the more-than-three decades she made our home complete. Granny was badly crippled. She told me that she had suffered "Rheumties" since she was a girl; but I always suspected that a lot of her problem was caused by working so long and hard, which she had done since she was a child. Granny never had to work very hard after she came to our house. She washed dishes, mopped the kitchen and bathroom floors and helped prepare meals. She was astounded at the efficiency of the washing machine and could never get over the fact that we made our own ice and had ice water, which she loved. She spent hours washing dishes, although for five people there were not mountains of them to wash. She would sit at the kitchen sink after "redding" up the dishes and cleaning the table; and she would start the dishwashing ritual. Every dish had to be scraped, washed with warm water, and then put into clean, hot water with soap flakes and scrubbed to within an friends; and Granny took inch of their lives. Then she would rinse them with cool water and put them into a dishpan on the stove and boil the heck out of them. No one ever had cleaner or more sanitized dishes than we had. My Dad would sometimes tell her that she would run the well dry and later. after we had city water, he would say, "We will never be able to pay the water bill," which was two or three dollars a month never had to work hard after she came to live with us: but that statement is not completely accurate. She worked hard during canning time. At least she felt she was working hard. She would go into such a flurry of activity when berries or peaches or apples were ripe and when kraut needed making and when beans should be canned or pickled. We would string beans and peel fruit until late at night and prepare vegetables for canning because the cellar just had to be filled.

When it was time, around the middle of September or the first of October to make the apple butter, Granny's entire personality changed. It seemed that she just burst with activity. She even seemed to walk a little straighter and a little faster when apple butter time arrived. It was then that she became the undisputed queen of the apple butter kettlethe supreme monarch of the cleaning of the kettle, the peeling of the apples, the starting of the fire, the proper cooking time for the unsweetened fruit pulp, the adding of just exactly the proper amount

They wash, stem, core and quarter them, make sauce and then begin the apple butter making process. But, not us! We had to peel them, carefully and thriftily with never a too thick peel and with not a I said that Granny black speck overlooked. My contribution to the apple butter making was helping Granny and Mom peel the endless supply of apples and washing twenty-three half-gallon jars, which I felt was the lowest of all chores. I would first bring them from the cellar, put them into a tub of cold water, brush out all the soil I could with a long handled brush and then carry them to the kitchen sink where they underwent a siege of soaking with hot, soapy water and then a scrubbing with a long wooden spoon with a dish rag tied around it. They were then rinsed, inspected by Mom and Granny for the degree of cleanliness and quite often criticized severely with the admonition, "Put that back and wash it right." After the jars were inspected with magnifying-glass thoroughness, they were set on the stove, covered with clean dish towels, later to be placed into the boiling water and fished out and placed in the oven for the completion of the sterilizing process. The great day arrived! Granny would arise at the crack of dawn, put on an old tan coat sweater

hats. From that moment until the fading of light of sugar and the adding of Granny was in a world of her own with no one allowed to come near. No oil, and sometimes the one was allowed to make suggestions. No one was allowed to administer the sugar or the flavoring; not necessarily peel the and no one, not anyone on earth, could touch that big wooden stir but Granny. No one could even holler at her. She was deaf to all noise and dumb to any spoken word. She would signal when it was time to bring the sugar which she would silently pour into the steaming kettle. She would drop the cinnamon stick or the oil or the cinnamon drops into the aromatic cauldron unaided; unadvised and silently. She was a different person, bent on her own business, and needing no help, suggestion or assistance from any woman, man or child.

When the stirring had accomplished its mission, when the apple butter was just thick enough and when the color was right, Granny would motion for us to get the jars ready for filling. We always had eleven and one-half gallons of treasure to put into our cellar. During the process, Granny would sometimes accept a sandwich or a glass of ice water, never pausing in her stirring and never removing her eyes from the precious kettle.

After the grueling day's work was done, Granny would accept help in walking to the house; she would wearily sit down at the kitchen table and allow us to give her a plate of food. Then she would get her pint jar of ice water and hike off to bed.

It was as if all of Granny's training in and one of my Dad's felt discipline, all of her work, all of her troubles and strife of a lifetime was geared up for this one victorious moment of triumph in making still another, good batch of apple butter for the cellar. Her joy was complete!

I do not know who ate that much apple butter. I know that Mom was not particularly fond of it; Norman didn't like it; and I couldn't stand the stuff. Must have been my Dad and Granny who ate it because every year those twenty-three jars were empty and awaiting washing at apple butter time.

trenches Ineath Granny's big tree in the front yard and pretend that I was driving cars.

One of the most joyous things I was allowed to do at Granny's house was to sweep her homewoven rag-rug carpets. The carpets were woven on a loom by someone. They were the width of throw rugs and they were sewn together lengthwise to cover the entire floor. I loved to sweep those floors with the stubby broom because it made me feel important to see all the dust flying through the house. After the dust settled, I took a cloth and dusted everything good.

Never will I feel the security I felt as a very small child at crawling into Granny's feather bed on her scratchy, homemade sheets, which were scrubbed on a board with lye soap, wrung by hand and hung for an entire day in the boiling hot sun, Sometimes we went to bed before it was completely dark (which I wasn't accustomed to); and I could stay awake and listen to the whippoor-will on early spring nights and the thunder on hot summer nights.

I learned, too, that all of life was not puppy dogs and pussy cats and grinding coffee. I learned of the sorrow and grief of a family who lost their mother during one of my visits to Granny's house. Granny's friend, who lived "back on the hill" passed away. She was one of Granny's very best national origin, that counts with God. Miriam's and Aaron's criticism testifies of racial prejudice.

The purpose of their speaking against Moses appears to be an attempt by Miriam and Aaron to magnify themselves in the eyes of the people.

Miriam and Aaron pointed out to the people that the Lord had also spoken by them. Miriam was a prophetess (Ex. 15:20). In Egypt, Aaron spoke the words of the Lord to Pharaoh and the Lord had, on an earlier occasion, spoken directly to Aaron (Ex. 4:27).

The Lord listened to Miriam's and Aaron's words and responded. In the normal course of human interactions, criticism of Moses would be addressed by Moses. Moses, however, was not one to assert himself. Moses was very meek (v. 3) and the Lord intervened. The Lord let it be known that there was a big difference in the manner in which he spoke to a prophet or prophetess than the manner in which He spoke to Moses. The Lord spoke to Moses, not in visions and dreams, but, mouth to mouth.

Miriam and Aaron knew that the Lord spoke to Moses in this manner before and after He delivered the law to him but chose to speak out against him. Nothing is hidden from the Lord. In speaking against Moses, they spoke against God. In speaking out against Zipporah because she was an Ethiopian, they spoke against God. The Lord was angry with them because they did not recognize Moses as "my servant" (v. 8). The Lord's anger was manifested by Miriam becoming leprous.

Why Miriam? Why not Aaron or both Miriam and Aaron? Return to verse 1. The verb "spake" in Hebrew is in the feminine singular form, suggesting that Miriam was more culpable than Aaron. It is likely that Miriam's criticisms were heard by a wider audience than those of Aaron who was restricted by his duties as high priest.

Looking upon his sister, Aaron asked Moses to intercede. Moses did as Aaron asked, but the Lord did not do as Moses requested. The Lord did not heal Miriam now. He let her remain leprous for seven days. The Lord made the reason for the sevenday wait. The Lord likened His action to that of a father's rebuke of a daughter. If a father should rebuke a daughter, the sting of the rebuke lingers. Miriam was to be shamed for seven days because she flouted God's authority. Her rebuke was of the Lord, and like her sin against God, was witnessed by all.

Public rebuke is a deterrent against sin. The Apostle Paul instructed Timothy to rebuke those who sin before all such that others may fear (I Tim. 5:20). The public rebuke which the Lord employed in Numbers 12 is given to New Testament believers for instruction. The God of the Old Testament is the God of the New Testament. He is never changing. He counts faith for righteousness today as He counted Abraham's faith for righteousness in Genesis.

Shop Locally Owned Small & Large Business

executives especially, for years, American Express has used a slogan, SHOP SMALL BUSINESS. Sounds good and we do need to do it. However, as I see it, we need to shop locally owned business. People who are vested in our community, who want our communities to prosper and grow. Not just because they are a small coffee shop. We need large companies locally owned, supporting local technology, manufacturing, shipping, assembly, and warehouses, those are the better paying jobs with benefits. This is for our children as well as for the community. Yes, it might cost a tiny bit more than the large corporate giant contract from somewhere else but this is where our homes and children are. The biggest investment you'll ever make. Is that not worth it? I've been in business here for 50 years. I watched American Viscose close, Nitro FCU, Union Carbide and countless others. The last notable one was Monsanto Corporation, their plant managers usually were local men who cared about our community. Then I noticed a change. They started changing. They were from other states, then out of the country, and the last one was from Australia. I had lunch with him the other day, I asked him about our community. He said that I can't concern myself with here, my home is in Australia. So goes the story. We should concern ourselves with Putnam, Kanawha, and Mason, from 1890s to the 1960s we had Mom & Pop stores across these United States with goods made here in the good ol' USA. We sent them all away. Now we have Dollar Tree, Dollar General, and Family Dollar and a host of other large corporate giants who send our dollars out of town every day. For years I've said practice the 5 Ps, Priority Purchasing. Purchase it in your community, purchase it in your city, purchase it in your county, purchase it in your state, and purchase it in the United States of America. Have other cities, countries and states do the same let's all grow and prosper together. It won't happen unless we all require it from the personal level ourselves. We know what we have to do to fix our economy,

Large corporate DEMAND AMERICAN tax because they want support your community. MADE, PAY AMERICAN WAGES, not third world countries' wages. Purchase in our community. We just have to make the decision to do it. We won't have quite as much at first but what we have will be worth it. This will cause offices and operations to open in our communities.

Plan to Talk to Our Politicians

If we really wanted to do something for our American people and our economy let's reward them for doing well. No income tax or lower tax after 38 hours of work gives them a reason to stay and finish that job. Or do another job like mow lawns, paint houses, plumbing repair or a thousand other things. Give tax breaks to people who use their trade to help elderly people. This encourages people to work more and earn more. This will stimulate people to spend extra income. Guess what, more sales tax on items purchased, is that not what the Governor wanted without raising other taxes this would help the employer and the employee and government, that is a win, win, win. Reward people for doing the extra work instead of more tax. Work two jobs, one full time, one part time and be awarded and praised by the government instead of trying to hide the income. Employer be praised by the government instead of shunned for working someone on the side. Make your places look better and be rewarded for helping your fellow man. Yes, there will have to be guidelines for this change of thinking. Do away with double taxation on rental property. Who do you think pays the extra tax? In many ways it is passed on to the tenant as cost of operation which affects costs of rent. If you really want to help our economy reward those who can least afford the double tax. Guess what the benefit. Many times they can do with that these are owned out of the extra income; spend more country. They get perks in the community, more tax income. More sales at local businesses and more tax. Do away with double tax on 2nd and 3rd homes, that's crazy reward people for working hard and achieving. Don't punish them, make it easy for everyone to achieve. Guess what that does, more spendable, taxable income. Their paying the to on stuff they want. Don't punish them for working, remember the words from the 60's. 70's. and 80's, work to get ahead, not stay the same or go backwards. Let's give ourselves a reason to want to do more to improve to get ahead. Never think someone is dumb, they're not. Remember, no one is dumber than you. We're all smart just in different ways. Those who will work are going to; let's make them a hero. Those who won't work are not going to. Find the positive, reward productivity.

Support Independent Local Technologies, Manufacturing, Assembly, Warehousing, and Shipping

What happens when you shop on-line and out of town.

1. You show business they don't have to be in your community.

2. Lowers business around you, loss of goods and services.

3. Lowers employment (jobs) in your area.

4. Lowers income to state, county and city governments which provides fire, police, and city maintenance (street lights, signage, sidewalks, etc.)

This affects land and property values, lowering the value of the area you live in. Probably not a very good idea for you from an investment standpoint. Key word is (YOU).

What happens when you shop with business owned by out of town entities

1. All sales and proceeds of those sales go to the home office. Wherever that might be. Generally, their community gets from your hard earned dollar.

There's nothing wrong with bringing new ideas and goods to our area. However, let's break the supply chain down, stock supplies, and take orders locally. Ship to warehouse in and distribute in our area.

This puts our people to work.
