

Board of Zoning Appeals Squelches Gun Sale Request

By Ron Allen

Go to: valleyoutdoorswv.com that is what Dolores Lowe and she did not like what she found. Lowe shared her findings with the Putnam County Board of Zoning Appeals (BZA) on Thursday, July 1.

Lowe said, “When I pulled up the website and the first thing that I see is an assault rifle — I have grandkids that come to my house every other week and I felt that it puts them in danger.”

The BZA was meeting to consider a request by Valley Outdoors owner Glenn Yeager for a variance to allow retail sale of firearms within 300 feet of a church, school, or residential building at 3034 Mt. Vernon Road in Hurricane.

Valley Outdoors opened its doors to sell outdoor recreation equipment, including firearms, in mid-June. Yeager reported that a former county employee gave him permission to open the business where it currently sits and to sell firearms. Officials with the Office of Planning and Infrastructure indicated the permission was given by the now former county employee, but that there was no written agreement. The former employee was terminated in March.

“When you tell somebody ‘this is how something is’ I’m the guy that, ‘that’s how it is,’” said Yeager. “You can’t let somebody go and borrow a ton of money and then change the game.”

“I have gone to extraordinary lengths to protect my community, my family, I live there. I have two little girls, you really think I’m going to drag some element into there that’s going to jeopardize that,” Yeager told members of the BZA.

Yeager stated that he had invested $150,000 to make the building more secure.

Citing the lack of a written approval by the former county employee to Yeager, the BZA denied the request to continue selling firearms in a 2-1 vote. Valley Outdoors can continue selling outdoor recreational equipment. The denial was strictly in regards to firearms.

Beloved Cat Crosses Rainbow Bridge at Age of Twenty-nine

By Connie Bays of Hurricane

My beautiful calico cat, Lilly, was born in my home in the spring of 1992, to a pregnant stray we had taken in. We had actually taken in two strays and both were pregnant. They gave birth within a couple days of each other. One of them was a young mommy who didn’t take care of her babies. The other cat was accepting of the other kittens along with her own and was taking good care of them. Within a week, however, she was growling when the baby kittens nursed. Upon checking her, she was very red and inflamed. A trip to the vet found her to have mastitis. She was not going to be able to nurse anymore. I bottle fed the kittens during the day while my daughters were at school, and then when I went to work in the evenings, they would feed them.

Lilly was the one who immediately stuck out in the bunch. She was a fuzzy ball of fluff with a distinctive black spot on the back of one foot. (That spot eventually took on the shape of a heart). Lilly was very pushy and demanding during feedings and she ate a lot. She soon became a pudgy little fuzzy ball of fluff. We gave all the kittens a home with us. They were spayed and neutered and given their vaccinations and such. Lilly initially didn’t like being held much. I would pick her up and she would kick with her hind legs and squirm until put down. She was always talkative. When I was working in the garden, I would hear meowing and look up to see Lilly crossing the yard, coming towards me. While I hoed the garden, she would stay one aisle over, supervising my work. Often, I would go to sit and rest a spell, only to find she had claimed my lawn chair for herself. We would end up sharing. Me in the chair and her in my lap.

She got along well with the other pets, but if one aggravated her, I noticed that all she had to do was give them “the look” and they would immediately back off. Everyone, myself included, knew that Miss Lilly had a mean right hook and wasn’t afraid to use it, to either get what she wanted, or teach one nearly 26 million people worldwide.² By 2030, it is expected to affect 8 million Americans.³ Heart failure patients experience severe symptoms including breathlessness, fatigue, confusion and swelling in the legs that make everyday activities challenging and significantly diminish their quality of life.

CCM therapy is a new, FDA-approved heart failure treatment proven to improve quality of life for patients who are no longer adequately responding to medications to manage symptoms or slow the progression of heart failure. The innovative therapy is the first of its kind intended to improve the contraction of the heart, allowing more oxygen-rich blood to reach the body. CCM therapy delivers precisely timed electrical pulses to the heart that are intended to improve the heart’s ability to contract. CCM can be used in conjunction with medications and other heart failure therapies.

“Bringing clinical trials and innovative, proven procedures to our patients is consistent with our role as part of an academic health system,” said Mark A. Studeny, M.D., an interventional cardiologist at Marshall Health, Cabell Huntington Hospital, St. Mary’s Medical Center, and professor and chair of cardiovascular services at the Marshall University Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine. “CCM therapy is a breakthrough, minimally invasive treatment option that doesn’t require open heart surgery and allows patients to return to everyday activities shortly after the procedure.”

“It is important for patients to talk to their physician if they begin developing symptoms of congestive heart failure,” said Carlos Rueda, M.D., a board certified advanced heart failure and transplant specialist at Marshall Health, Cabell Huntington Hospital and St. Mary’s Medical Center. “The earlier heart failure is detected, the sooner treatment options, including CCM therapy, can be determined.”

CCM therapy may be an appropriate option for up to 70 percent of NYHA Class III (a classification of heart symptoms) heart failure patients who continue to experience symptoms despite taking the optimal heart failure medications for their condition. The purpose of the post-approval study is to evaluate the effects of CCM therapy on patients’ quality of life and heart failure symptoms, according to Rueda, an assistant professor and principal investigator on the device trial.

To find out more about CCM therapy, call Marshall Cardiology, an outpatient department of Cabell Huntington Hospital, at 304-691-8500 or visit marshallhealth.org/CCM.

CCM therapy was developed by Impulse Dynamics, based in Mount Laurel, New Jersey. Visit www.Impulse-Dynamics.Com to learn more about the company.

The Way We Were, The Way We Are

By Brenda Burke

I don’t know how many columns I have written in the past year about losing a loved one... I have lost too many to count... I repeat myself over and over. However, this one hit too close to home... my brother-in-law, Marshall, died in June... He was younger than we are... 71... a wonderful, kind person... too young... leaving his family behind... including his siblings... heart breaking and sudden...

I met Marshall when Mike and I started dating in 1963... I was fifteen, and I believe Marshall had just turned 14... (I was almost sixteen...) He was in 9th grade... we spent much time watching him play football... when we were not watching Mike and others... When I was a senior, Marshall was in the tenth grade, and we saw each other often. I was already a member of the Burke family, unofficially... fun times with all of them...

Many of those who still live in Hurricane cared about this man, and I know are mourning his loss along with family and friends. We all are... we remember... those days...

First dates... playing Canasta, football games, school dances, Sunday dinners after church, picnics, trips to the Burke family in Ohio (Grandma and all)... so many good times. I drove to Ohio to pick up Marshall from college sometimes... he was a friend...

I last saw Marshall in WV, at an uncle’s funeral (Burke)... we chatted a few minutes... always kind... caring... just nice... that smile... I, of course, never realized it would be the last time... one never does...

Marshall has left a legacy... his children and grands... his wife... his brothers and sister... nieces and nephews who cared also... he was bigger than life... he was a presence... he was what you saw... no artifice... just Marshall...

Through the years (before the divorce), we visited with each other—his family—ours... and played cards... board games... he went on the Burke fishing trip that Mike started in 1969... but one thing I remember that he got us doing—snow skiing... I was 40... I loved it... I was NOT good at it... but so much fun... I remember one of his children skiing with me to make sure I was ok... she was so little, but she was helping her aunt... I love his family... still to this day... each one...

Marshall still has family in Hurricane... a brother-in-law and his wife... I am sure they have had great times together also... he still has Mike and the rest of the Burkes... I know they love him and will miss him...

The yearly Burke reunion will be this Saturday in Ohio—the last Saturday of June... he will be missed, as will AUNT Phyllis... we lost her this year also... too many... too many... my heart aches for the ones who are gone—more than a dozen in the past year... I keep getting phone calls... I keep weeping for them...

Marshall, well done good and faithful servant... we will miss you... we remember you... we loved you... because the way we were back in 1963 is the way we are today... friends and family forever...rest in peace, my friend...

down, and then climb through the window and plop down in my lap. We would often sit in the car like that for an hour or so, just cuddling and enjoy each other’s company. Bagheera became suddenly and seriously ill one day, and the vet determined that she had a previously unknown congenital heart defect. They did everything they could to save her, but she didn’t make it.

I missed her terribly, and one day, Lilly started meeting me at the car, and doing everything Bagheera had done. She had never done that before. She saw my sadness and she stepped in to fill that void. A few years ago, when my Mother first became ill, and I was caring for her, Lilly started wanting to come inside more and began sleeping with me. The sicker my Mom got, the more attentive and loving Lilly became. She would climb into my lap when I was watching TV and graduated from sleeping with me, to sleeping on me. She would walk up on my back, or my side, and plop down on my back or the side of my upper arm, and hook her paws over the edge of my shoulder. We would both go to sleep that way. If I woke up in the middle of the night, she would often be lying across my neck, and I’d have her tail as a mustache, or she’d be asleep on my chest. That went on for a few years.

When my Mother passed away last November, I was deeply affected by my grief. Lilly stayed right with me constantly. When watching TV, she no longer lay in my lap; she laid against my chest and would rub her head against my cheek, and give me kisses with her rough little tongue on my cheek. When I went to bed, she went with me and stayed right by my side, or often, ON my side. She usually was up before me, and after deciding I’d had enough time in bed, her earsplitting yowl could be heard across the house. If I waited a few minutes, she would come to get me. She’d jump on the bed, walk up my legs and my chest, and start licking my face like a dog would, until I got up. She was hungry and wanted her breakfast, what we called “her nummies.” Just like she was as a kitten, Lilly liked to eat!

Over the years, I had to adjust her diet, because she lost all her teeth. She received wet, canned food in the mornings. She loved Friskies shreds, flakes, and bits in gravy. I would give her a base of the pâté and top it with the gravy mixture. She loved it. In the evenings, she still ate dry food. I don’t know how she did it, but she swallowed it whole. The canned food was added to maintain her weight. She also had lost most, if not all, of her hearing. She learned to respond to hand gestures. To come, to stop, or to go. You’d just have to get her attention so she was looking at you, and then she’d respond to whatever gesture it was, most usually, to come.

To be as old as she was, 29 years young, she only had two health problems. She had a recurring ear infection, and a growth on her hip. The ear infection necessitated a few trips out to the vet for a steroid injection and ear drops. She did not like riding in the car. I had the soft fabric carrier for her. She would claw at it, and try to bite it, and yowl the whole trip. I would stick my hand in to comfort her and she would sometimes bite me in frustration, but gum burn was the worst she could do, with no teeth. She got her point across, though, that she wasn’t happy. Putting those ear drops in wasn’t much fun either. She might not have been able to bite, but her claws worked just fine! She had to be wrapped in a towel in order to get them in with my skin intact. The growth on her hip did not bother her. The vet said it wasn’t cancer. It was just under the skin and not attached to anything. Actually it seemed more like a cyst, because the size would sometimes go up or down, but it wasn’t painful for her. She was too old to have it removed. She would have never tolerated a surgery, and the vet advised against it.

She loved going outside during the day, and one day recently, she caught a chipmunk! She had never been noted to hunt before. I think she just happened to be in the right place at the right time. She didn’t hurt the chipmunk. She had no teeth. She carried it a few feet and then I made her put it down. Then she caught it a second time, and again carried it a few feet, and I made her put it down again. Then it scampered away. Lilly was quite proud of herself.

Lilly had two buddies - Whiskers and Bitty Baby. Everyone knew Lilly was the head honcho. One of her looks would send them packing. Lilly’s appetite decreased on June 18. She stopped eating and drinking by the 20th, and I had to use a syringe to give her fluids and baby food. I held her in my arms all weekend while she alternately slept or nuzzled her head under my chin or on my cheek. She slept at night on my chest. I didn’t sleep much. A trip to the vet brought an antibiotic. We went home. She took the medicine and some water and baby food. She went to sleep in my arms and slept peacefully, about four hours, and slipped from this world on June 21, to where she will wait for me one day.

My devastation at her loss is immense. When I can think and imagine things without crying, I imagine her little sweet soul young and renewed. I imagine her cuddling with my Mother. I be!

I Stood By Your Bed — Author Unknown

I stood by your bed last night, I came to have a peep. I could see that you were crying, you found it hard to sleep. I whined to you so softly as you brushed away a tear, “It’s me, I haven’t left you, I’m well, I’m fine, I’m here.”

I was close to you at breakfast, I watched you pour the tea. You were thinking of the times, your hands reached down to me. I was with you at my grave today, you tend it with such care. I want to reassure you, that I’m not lying there.

I walked with you towards the house, as you fumbled for your key. I gently put my paw on you, I smiled and said, “It’s me.” You looked so very tired, and sank into a chair. I tried so hard to let you know, that I was standing there.

It’s possible for me, to be so near you every day. To say to you with certainty, “I never went away.” You sat there very quietly, then smiled, I think you knew... In the stillness of that evening, I was very close to you. The day is over... I smile and watch you yawning And say, “Good-night, God bless, I’ll see you in the morning.” And when the time is right for you to cross the brief divide, I’ll rush across to greet you and we’ll stand, side by side. I have so many things to show you, there is so much for you to see. Be patient, live your journey out... then come home to be with me.

(2-19-1921); Bertha “Berchie” (6-8-1922); Laufer Edward “Jack” (5-10-1925); Gale Coleman (4-14-1927); Noralee (2-3-1933); and Charles Kent (2-1-1936). Charley served in WW I as a Corp. in the Army (Medics). During the early years, he was a farmer in the area, worked at Carbide for 17 years, and in the late 1940’s went into the carpentry and building business. He acquired the Dallas Erwin farm on lower Virginia Avenue (known as the Rumbaugh addition to Hurricane), where he built homes. When I-64 was built across the property, the bridge over the road was identified as the Rumbaugh Bridge.

All the children with the family attended the Baptist Church and graduated from Hurricane High School, four attended Marshall University, one Huntington Trade School and Noralee attended University of N.M., Albuquerque, N.M.

During and after WWII, the family left the area: Madalon to Ohio and Michigan serving in the U.S. Signal Corp. Married Gordon Heeringa Reichold (5-18-1945). Berchie to Albuquerque, N.M.; LE. “Jack” served in the Army Airforce and settled in Sanford, Florida. Gale Coleman served in the Navy, lived in New Mexico and at the present living in William’s Lake, Canada. Noralee, living in Albuquerque, N.M. Charles Kent, served in the Army, stationed over-seas and returned to live in Michigan and at present, Indianapolis, Indiana.

After his failing health, Charlie and Annie moved to Florida to be with two of their children, Madalon in New Smyrna Beach and Jack in Sanford, Florida. After his death, Annie moved to Albuquerque, N.M. to be with daughter Berchie (Mrs. Robert W. Henderson) and Noralee (Mrs. James Bruskus) where she resides at the present.

Kent Rumbaugh has traced the Rumbaugh’s (Rambo, Rumbach) back seven generations where Grandfather John Rumbaugh served as

The Frog

By Hilaire Belloc
Submitted by Sophia Courtright of Hurricane

Be kind and tender to the Frog,
And do not call him names,
As “Slimy skin,” or “Polly-wog,”
Or likewise “Ugly James,”

Or “Gape-a-grin,” or “Toad-gone-wrong,”
Or “Billy Bandy-knees”:
The Frog is justly sensitive
To epithets like these.

No animal will more repay
A treatment kind and fair;
At least so lonely people say
Who keep a frog (and, by the way,
They are extremely rare).

Thousands of Reasons...

Submitted by Myra Simmons

If every morning,
You can find a reason to say...
“Yes, it’s going to be a beautiful day.”
And everyday, you find a reason to say,
“Yes, it is a beautiful day.”
And every night, you find a reason to say,
“Yes, it was a beautiful day.”
Then one day...
You will look back and easily say,
“Yes... it was a beautiful life.”

GOD IS OMNIPRESENT

Outside on a summer evening, with the vast expanse of sky overhead and a warm breeze gently blowing, it can feel like God is all around us. Where does God live? He’s not in a body like we are. He can be as many places as he needs to be; He is omnipresent, omnipotent, and omniscient. He lives especially in our hearts. Celebrate His presence in your life and heart at your house of worship this week.

Hezekiah Rallies Judah’s Army

II Chronicles 32:1-8, 22-23

“After these things . . .” (v. 1). After these things refers to all which transpired between II Chronicles 29:3 and 31:21. After these things consists of all that Hezekiah caused to happen during the first 13 years of his reign as king of Judah.

In the first month of his reign, Hezekiah opened the temple which his father had closed and made repairs. He refurbished the articles of worship in the temple and organized the priests and Levites such that they might sanctify themselves and cleanse the temple. He re-established the offering up burnt sacrifices to the Lord and keeping the Passover as had been practiced in the days of Solomon.

Shalmaneser king of Assyria conquered Israel and repopulated the territory of the northern kingdom with Assyrians in the 7th year of Hezekiah’s reign. The kingdom of Israel ceased to exist at that time. Hezekiah invited the remnant of the tribes of Israel that remained in the land to partake of the Passover in Jerusalem and a number responded (see II Chron. 30:6, 11). Following this Passover, the people went throughout Judah and destroyed altars to false gods and cut down the groves.

In the 14th year of Hezekiah’s reign (see II Kings 18:13), “Sennacherib king of Assyria came . . . and thought to win them (the fortified cities of Judah) for himself” (v. 1b). Sennacherib thought to do to Judah as Shalmaneser had done to Israel. In verses 2-8, we see Hezekiah’s response.

Hezekiah’s thoughts were to make it as difficult as he possibly could for Sennacherib to accomplish his goal. It was Hezekiah’s thought to stop up the springs of water that flowed into “the brook that ran through the midst of the land” (v. 4). Hezekiah sought to eliminate a natural water source upon which the Assyrians could rely.

While making water unavailable to the enemy can be an effective tactic, stopping up ever flowing springs is not easily achieved and is, at best, a temporary deterrent. Hydraulic pressure will build and cause the pent up waters to break through and create new channels of flow. It was Hezekiah’s intent that the Assyrians should not find an abundance of water when they came to besiege the city and he ordered the defenders of Jerusalem to seal up the springs.

Hezekiah then strengthened the walls of the city and constructed an outer wall which, when breached, would expose the attackers to counter attacks launched from the higher elevation of the stronger walls that had protected Jerusalem for century after century. Hezekiah “made darts and shields in abundance” (v. 5). The defenders of Jerusalem would have the weaponry needed to defend themselves.

After taking these steps, Hezekiah gathered his “captains of war” and issued words of encouragement to them. He declared that Jerusalem was stronger than the multitudes that came to fight against them because “with us is the Lord our God to help us, and to fight our battles” (v. 8).

The author of II Chronicles was moved to write: “And the people rested themselves upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.” The defenders of Jerusalem were as well prepared to defend their city as they could possibly be. They were prepared for a battle that would never take place.

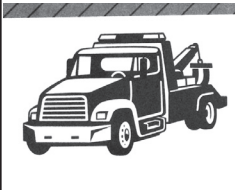

Sennacherib’s plan was to lay siege to Jerusalem (v. 11). The defenders of Jerusalem would eventually find themselves without food and water and be forced to surrender. Sieges can be long in duration. The Assyrian siege of the city of Samaria was three years in duration (II Kings 17:5). Sennacherib, likening the God of Jerusalem to gods made by the hands of men, announced that God would fail to deliver Jerusalem from his hand (v. 14).

Hezekiah’s preparations would be insufficient to endure a siege of three years and Hezekiah knew it. Hezekiah called upon the Lord (v. 20). The Lord heard his prayer.

Sennacherib would return to his own land (v. 21). The siege ended because the Lord sent an angel who slew 185,000 Assyrians that very night (see II Kings 19:35). The Lord God caused Sennacherib to return to his own land.

Verse 22 states, “Thus the Lord saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib the king of Assyria, and from the hand of all other, and guided them on every side.”

That which happened with Hezekiah was made to happen by the Lord God. Hezekiah believed that the Lord was with him and would help Judah. Hezekiah called out to the Lord and Judah was saved. The God of the Old Testament is the God of the New Testament. All who call upon Him believing, shall not perish but receive life eternal.

GERALDINE JACOBS

Geraldine L. “Gerry” Jacobs, 83, of Hurricane, went to her heavenly home on July 3, 2021, after a short illness.

She was born on March 24, 1938 in Lewisburg, WV, to the late Charles and Gladys Hedrick. Gerry was also preceded in death by her loving husband, Jerry, and her sisters, Carol Gibson and Sandy Walkup, both of Rupert, WV, and her brother-in-law, Larry Decker of Wabash, IN.

Gerry had a strong work ethic and was employed by, and retired from, Thomas Memorial Hospital, in South Charleston, WV, having worked there for 35 years.

Throughout her life, Gerry was known to those who loved her for making the best holiday meals and “Sunday Dinners”, an art learned from her mother, but perfected over many years of spoiling her family with her delicious cooking. She will be lovingly remembered for her homemade bread, noodles, strawberry freezer jam, fudge, cookies, cakes, pies and so much more. Gerry loved spending time at their Greenbrier County family camp with all of her loved ones, she loved to fish, she loved to read a good book or watch a good movie and she enjoyed going to estate sales, but her greatest joy was her family. She was a strong, reserved lady, not especially social or talkative, but a good listener, and wasn’t one to give unwanted advice. Gerry deeply loved, and was so loved by, her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. While we mourn that her time on earth has ended, we take comfort in knowing that she is finally at peace and once again with her beloved Jerry, and that, together, they will continue to watch over their growing family, having left us with cherished memories and strong, family traditions.

Gerry is survived by her daughters, Kathy Means of Hurricane and Vicki Lyons of Huntington, her sons, Richard Jacobs and his wife, Jackie, of

CHARLES TRACY SURFACE

Charles Tracy Surface, 88, of Cross Lanes, went home to be with the Lord on Monday June 28, 2021. Born December 9, 1932 in Bluefield, Charles was the last surviving child of the late Frank Edward Surface and Jeanette Carter Surface. In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by siblings; William Surface, George Surface, Donald Surface, John Surface, Kelly Surface and Evelyn Sizemore.

Charles loved the Lord, his family and being a truck driver, in that order. At an early age, Charles began driving trucks for his family business, Surface Banana Company. Charles helped expand the family business as a route salesman/manager and he started new operations in Charleston, Huntington and Abington, Va. He then worked for 20 years with Union Carbide Trucking Operations before starting his own trucking company, which he still operated and drove for until he was 80 years old. His family would often marvel at his work ethic, but Charles always remained a humble man of God and a man of prayer. He credited all his achievements to the Lord.

Charles was awarded numerous safe driving awards during his career, including 2 million miles without an accident. During his life he had several encounters with death, when God protected him. He was one truck away from losing his life in the Silver Bridge collapse, was stung by a deadly scorpion while unloading bananas and blinded by hazardous chemicals while changing hoses from his tanker truck. Charles travelled many miles during his lifetime and his truck was his sanctuary for prayer and time with Jesus.

Charles was a sweet man that modeled the life of Christ and followed the great commandment/ commission of loving God and loving his neighbor. He was a faithful member of Teays Valley Church of God. He loved worshipping God at church services and fellowshiping with brothers and sisters in Christ. In his younger years he enjoyed Men’s group, attending church conferences and teaching Sunday School. One of his spiritual highlights was travelling to Israel with Kay and being baptized in the Jordan River. He also enjoyed riding the trails with his sons and family beach vacations with Kay, Duana and the boys. Charles loved being Papa to his 4 grandchildren and he taught them all to love God and family and to work hard.

He is survived by his beloved wife of 60 years, Kay; children, Duana Barnett (Bill) of Hillsboro, Tracy Surface (Linda) of Hurricane and Rusty Surface (Joyce) of Hurricane; grandchildren, Rynne, Kaylen, Trent and Maria and baby Surface on the way.

Funeral service was Thursday, July 1, 2021 at Chapman Funeral Home, Hurricane with Rev. Dr. Melissa Pratt and Rev. Larry Hammett officiating. Burial was in Montgomery Memorial Park, London.

DELLA MAY VIA

PAULINE WHITE

How do you say goodbye to someone who meant so much to so many? On Tuesday, June 29, 2021 the world lost a kind and loving soul, Pauline Gibson White. Pauline was born November 1, 1934 to Houston and Clara Gibson. She was the second of four daughters affectionately known as “The Gibson Girls.” She grew up in Hurricane then moved to Culloden when she married her love, Ray White in January of 1952. Pauline and Ray had three children, Roger, Margaret and Lisa. She was a homemaker, gardener, and mentor to many. She enjoyed sewing, cooking, and volunteering at her church. Pauline was the matriarch of her family and without hesitation stepped into the maternal role to her nieces and nephews when her sisters, their mothers, passed. Her family appointed her “Queen Pauline” and all who know her will miss her humor, grace, and guidance.

Along with her parents she was met at heaven’s gates by her husband, Ray, her children, Roger & Lisa, her three sisters, Doris Vance, Judy Kennedy and Betty Bennett. Those left to cherish all of the wonderful memories are her daughter, Margaret Lucas, grandchildren: Logan White (Laura), Amber Lucas, Heather Nowalk (Ben) and Charlie Lucas(Stephanie) and great grandchildren: Sarah & Victoria White, Gabriel Davison & Journey Lucas, Audrey & Garrett Westphal and Thomas & Tripp Lucas- all of whom she loved dearly. She also leaves behind nieces, nephews, and their children who absolutely adored her & loved her more than words can say.

Funeral service was Monday, July 5, 2021 at Allen Funeral Home with Pastor Brent Beckett officiating, Burial was in Valley View Cemetery.

Eighth-Grader’s Design Brings Awareness of Opioid Abuse

West Virginia Attorney General Patrick Morrisey hopes an eighth-grader's winning design will help bring to light the harsh realities of opioid abuse and the destruction it can cause.

Liliona McKenzie Wright, of Rivesville Elementary/Middle School in Marion County, recently won the Attorney General's Kids Kick Opioids contest. Now her illustration of how prescription painkiller abuse impacts one's family and loved ones is appearing in newspapers across the state.

Wright's winning design features a drawing of a woman crying with a thought bubble depicting prescription pills above her head. "She was beautiful like a porcelain doll until she picked up the bottle, beauty began to fade as the doll cracked and shattered..." the illustration reads.

"Liliona's design portrays the grim reality of the opioid epidemic and how opioid abuse can devastate families and end lives," Attorney General Morrisey said.
