A Gardener's Night Before Christmas

By Dr. Leonard Perry, Extension Professor University of Vermont Submitted by Myra Simmons

T'was the night before Christmas and under the Perennials now dormant were waiting to grow.

The roses were mulched, the soil piled high, To protect the graft union so the plants wouldn't

The strawberries were nestled all snug in their beds.

While visions of fertilizer (organic or not) danced in their heads.

The orchard was clean, the fruit trees at rest, No diseases were living much less any pest. The evergreen branches, all coated with ice, Provide shelter for birds that they would entice. Shrubs were all sprayed with repellents this year, To protect them from feeding by mice and by deer. Inside the house are poinsettias galore, While wreaths, boughs and holly adorn the front door.

While enjoying my garden this quiet, cold night, What my eyes then spied was a gardener's delight! A jolly old man in suit red and white, Pulled up in a sleigh and began to alight. He laughed as he said, "I'm a gardener myself," And began to leave gifts packed by his elf. Practical gifts like tools and a mower, Along with some labels, pots, and a sower.

To protect our hands were hand cream and gloves, For my spouse a sun hat in a color she loves. A hoe will be useful for pulling up weeds,

New flats and soil media for sowing spring seeds. Next came a trellis for the clematis vine, Stakes for new trees, and to hold them some twine.

For the patio a planter and large flower pot, Both were in colors bold, bright, and red hot. To help all our veggies grow sweet and grow

There were large bags of compost to help them

Our cats will be happy with their new catnip

Our birds will enjoy their heated bath and bird

For fun was a rain gauge and new garden book, A train for the garden, homemade jam for the cook. As jolly St. Nick finished he winked and stood tall, And I heard him exclaim "Merry Christmas," and Happy Gardening to all.

Attorney General Morrisey Underscores Need To Guard Children from Identity Theft

West Virginia Attorney General Patrick Morrisey warned consumers to watch for identity theft this holiday season, especially when it comes to children using the latest digital devices.

Many children may receive new gadgets and electronics as Christmas presents. These gifts will give them broader access to the Internet. That means every smartphone, tablet and gaming device poses an increased risk of identity theft by way of malicious apps and social networks.

"Children don't always understand the basics of digital security, especially with the excitement of receiving a new device," Attorney General Morrisey said. "Many times these gifts become just another form of entertainment. Each device makes a child susceptible, however.

so it's important for everyone to monitor screen usage and educate children about dangers posed by technology."

The Way We Were, The Way We Are By Brenda Burke

At the end of 2020, my family, friends, and I were hopeful for 2021... We kept saying—all yearwhen the Pandemic is over... when Covid is not a threat... we hoped that we would travel... go into restaurants... not that we whined and complained... we were pragmatic about what was going on. After all, a pandemic? None of us have gone through that in our lifetime...

We remember Polio and that scare... in a way... not vividly... we remember lining up at the elementary school for the vaccine... no one politicized it... it just During 2020, my car was not moved from March until August... my family in Indy delivered my groceries to the outside door... I took them in... no one was in my apartment during 2020... it was not safe... I did not visit in my family's home either. That was difficult. We did see each other in the fall outside for special occasions... we knew it would end... the world would return to "normal.'

When the vaccine was announce, hope was all around us in 2021. There were no complaints... just get the vaccine. People have been getting vaccines for years... all kinds... never discussions... personal choices... not a political issue... OOPS... something happened... the Covid Vaccine became a battle... in politics... that turned people against it. Even though so many were dying... it didn't seem important enough to take that jab.

I received my vaccines in January and February with some side effects... nothing compared to having Covid... I do NOT like vaccines... I have never been an advocate of them... However, in this case, I knew I did not want to get sick... I am elderly... I am old... I need to do what I can to keep myself and my family safe. I did it. In March, after the adults in my family had been vaccinated, I moved to Florida to be near my son's family and the little ones...my daughter and I were sad that I was leaving her family, but we agreed it was time for the boys to have a grandparent near by. (I am one mile from them... the boys can see the condos from their third floor in their home behind me...) Hope again... a vaccine... perhaps soon we would get rid of the masks... such a little thing to wear... such a controversy over them... rights... really? Life would get back to normal... whatever that is... Here we are at the end of 2021, and that HOPE is on the back burner again. Why? One answer. When

Covid was announced in March of 2020, if everyone in this nation had isolated, distanced, and masked, we would not be in the mess we have been in. In 2021, when the vaccine was made available, if everyone had realized that Covid is a medical issue... not a political one... we would be so better off than we are now... that has not happened... I have no answers... I just hope and pray that in 2022, businesses and offices begin mandating the vaccination... I want to be rid of the mask... (I have also had the booster...) I wear the mask because the vaccine does not keep me from getting the vaccine, but it might save my life. Hope... I have hope...

My two little grandsons are so wonderful... they don the masks when they go anywhere... they have never complained... they just wish Covid would end... "Nana, why won't adults get vaccinated?" Wise boys... I have no answer for those little ones...

Two years... Two years of a pandemic that did not have to be as bad as it has been... it is not a matter of one's rights... I repeat myself over and over... I don't like seat belts... I wear them... I am sure those who smoke don't like the rules about smoking in public... but they obey them. This pandemic has killed more people than most wars... it has been terrible... it is real; it is here to stay if someone does not do something... I believe that this is a case of one person at a time standing up and proclaiming that "I will be one to help..." Get vaccinated... mask... isolate... with the new variant, we are starting over... will schools close? Will businesses? Restaurants? Well... if they do... they do...

I have not eaten in restaurants... I go to the grocery at 8 a.m. A small grocery store... I avoid big box stores and the mall. No one has been in the condo but family... I am still watching church online; I will go when things are better. Oh my goodness. "When things are better..." I have said that a million times.

This is not a matter of fear or doubt or unbelieving... this is a matter of saving lives... there is a virus... there is a vaccine... please choose to do what will help...

I have great faith...

I have great hope that 2022 will be the year that things will get better. I have two things I hope to do... go to WV and see my friends... go to NYC and celebrate my 75th... visit my granddaughter who will be living there and working... go to Indy although they visit each month... they can fly because they are younger and vaccinated... I want to walk into a church for real... as to eating in a restaurant or going to a mall... I am so over that... my hope and prayer for 2022 is that the pandemic will end... that people will realize that this is NOT political... the virus is real... just talk to a family who has lost a husband or father... I have listened to them... it is real... thanks for reading my columns so many years... thanks for the encouragement...

we will do what we need

LOVING & GIVING

Tt's the season of gift giving...to friends, to family, to strangers. $oldsymbol{1}$ We can give without loving, but we cannot love without giving. A loving gift may be material or something as simple as a smile, a hug or a listening ear. God's gift of His Son, Jesus Christ, was the greatest gift of love and sacrifice; when we accept God's gift we have everything, without it we are the poorest of the poor. Thank God for His wondrous gift; praise Him as you worship this season of joy.

BASIC BIBLE

By Ron Allen 304-562-9881

A Humble Lord is Born

Philippians 2:5-11; John 13:12-17

The two passages before us are words of instruction to two different audiences. That said, they are words of instruction to a single audience — they are instruction to all past, present and future believers.

In verse 5, Paul exhorts Philippian believers to let "this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." The Apostle Paul is speaking, not to the Philippians alone, but to all believers. All believers know that they are sinners dependent upon God's gift of grace. All believers know that the gift of grace is the only begotten Son who is their ransom and the ransom for all who will ever believe. Believers are to have the mind of the Son who gave

The mind of Christ is revealed by the manner in which the Son chose to interact with those about Him. That manner is characterized by the apostle Paul in verses 3 and 4. We are to be lowly of mind, esteeming others to be better than ourselves, and to look upon the needs of others.

In verses 6-8, Paul expands upon the mind of Christ. Jesus walked the earth in full knowledge of His being. Jesus knew that He was infinitely greater than man whom He created. He knew Himself to be equal with God. Knowing that He was divine, He chose to take on the status of a servant. He placed the need of others before the preservation of self. He willingly chose to give up life in the flesh for others (us).

This is an unnatural thing for man to do. Behavioral scientists have studied natural man and concluded that one cannot fill the needs of others unless one first satisfies his own needs. This is true if a man must rely upon his own resources. One cannot give that which he does not possess. Christ gave His righteousness for us. He was without sin; He possessed the righteousness which He gave. We cannot give ourselves for others in the sense that He gave Himself for us because we do not have that righteousness to give.

Return to verse 5. In his instruction, Paul says: "Let this mind be in you. . ." The verb is "let", meaning to allow or to prevent not. Paul does not say "take", as in forcefully gaining possession. One cannot acquire the mind of Christ through the assertion one's will. The mind of Christ is obtained not by taking, but by yielding.

It is God's will that the mind of Christ be in believers (us) but His will cannot be realized in us unless we yield ourselves to Him. Yielding means giving up control. It means: ". . . not my will, but thine, be done." When we yield to Him, He gives. Believers receive the mind of Christ by yielding self. We exist in a reality governed by cause and effect. The effect that Paul (and God) desires is that we be selfless as Jesus was selfless. The resource that produces that effect is the divine nature of God. It is a resource that is given to all who allow God to have His way.

Care must be taken in reading verse 9. The exaltation of the Son by God the Father is not evidence of a separation within the Godhead. Jesus was the Word from before the beginning. Death upon the cross did not transition the flesh of a man into God the Son. Christ's sacrificial death was and is the expression of God's divinity and love — the acts of the Son are the expressions of God the Father. There is no separation. When God the Father exalted God the Son from the grave to His right hand, it was for threefold purpose: (1) that all (in heaven, in earth and under the earth) should bow to the Son (v. 10); (2) that all, at a future time, should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord; and (3) that it be to the glory of God. When one gives glory to the Son, the Father is the recipient of that glory through the Son.

In the second passage before us, verses 13 through 17 are words which Jesus spoke to the twelve disciples whom He had chosen. Jesus made it known to them why that He assumed the role of a servant and had washed their feet. Jesus said, "I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you." Believers are called to be servants one to another. In verse 17, Jesus stated: "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." One can read these words, make himself or herself a servant to others, and NOT be happy because one does not have the mind of Him who gave Himself for us. One acquires the mind of Christ by letting the Comforter, the Holy Spirit, lead guide and direct. It was the mind of Christ to do the Father's will, even unto death.

May all find happiness in being the servant of fellow servants.
