

West Virginia’s Lying Covid-19 Numbers Putnam County Library Sponsors ‘Healthy Earth, Healthy You’

By Ron Allen

Purposely, misquoting the popular quotation — “There are three kinds of falsehoods, lies, damned lies and West Virginia Covid-19 statistics.”

West Virginia’s Covid numbers lie because they strongly suggest that vaccination against the disease is without value or worse, harmful.

On Tuesday, April 26, the DHHR reported 81 Covid hospitalizations statewide. More than half, 41, were listed as fully vaccinated. If this statistic is NOT a lie, vaccination against the disease is no better than not being vaccinated.

A closer look at the DHHR data reveals that 22 of the hospitalized were in ICU. Half (11) were fully vaccinated and half were not. If true, what is the value of having been vaccinated? The lying DHHR Covid number declares that there is no value.

An even closer look at Tuesday’s DHHR numbers show that 12 individuals, statewide, were listed as being on ventilators. Of the 12 patients on vents, seven were fully vaccinated and five were not vaccinated. If these numbers are true, it is reasonable to conclude that vaccination is either worthless or, worse, harmful.

The DHHR Covid number are correct and the numbers do not lie. That said, to suggest that vaccination against Covid-19 was worthless is a misuse of numbers.

Here’s why. The Covid-19 that has 81 West Virginians receiving hospital care is not the Covid-19 that resulted in 6,845 deaths since the beginning of the pandemic. The Covid-19 strains which produced most deaths are no longer in circulation. The vaccine made it necessary for the virus to mutate or die out. The virus became more contagious but less harmful.

The DHHR Covid-19 numbers do, however, suggest that past and present vaccines are totally ineffective against the strains now in circulation. Currently (as of April 26 reporting), there are 36 active cases in Putnam County. This number is up from the 11 cases reported on March 26. Putnam’s active case numbers hit a seasonal high of 477 during the first week of February.

The current numbers tell a different story than that which the numbers of six months ago told. Current numbers suggest that it is a lie to claim that vaccinations and booster shots have any value in Teays Valley to give a hands-on gardening demonstration on Saturday, April 23. Bowen, who is with the Marshall University Nutrition Education Program, discussed the importance of sustainability and helping the environment. The workshop lecture was called “Healthy Earth, Healthy You!” and was geared towards children and their parents.

Bowen showed how old food containers such as tin cans could be reused as seed planters, and how plastic containers with lids, such as those used for packaging strawberries and tomatoes, could be used as terrariums which would provide humidity to the seedlings. This

Goldenseal Magazine Spring Issue Now Available

The Spring 2022 issue of GOLDENSEAL is now available. Since 1975, GOLDENSEAL has been West Virginia’s Magazine of Traditional Life.

Much of this issue is dedicated to Pocahontas County, which is celebrating its bicentennial. Three West Virginia University Public History students contributed to the magazine. Elizabeth Satterfield takes us back to the timber ghost town of Spruce; Jennifer Mihal visits the historic Sharp’s Country Store at Slaty Fork; and Kristen Bailey looks at timber-related folk songs. In addition, Louise Burner writes about her ancestral home at Cass, which is now a museum and art gallery. There are poems by her family’s matriarch, Virginia Clark Burner, and by poet Kirk Judd, as well as a previously unpublished story by former state Poet Laureate Louise McNeill. This issue also includes a photo spread about Marlinton’s Pioneer Days celebration in the 1970s, and Carl E. Feather visits with Bill Young, who preserves old apple varieties in Frost, W.Va.

In addition to the stories of Pocahontas County, Ivan M. Tribe and Jake Bapst examine the long country music career of Slim Lehart, known as “The Wheeling Cat.” Candy Thompson profiles Howard Teets of Rowlesburg, Preston County; Tom Zielinsky details Zalia, a now-abandoned brick-making community in Hancock County; Merle T. Cole looks at the history of Special Forces stationed in Beckley; Sherry Hill remembers former West Virginia State College (now University) Professor Zeona Haley, the stepmother of Roots author Alex Haley; and the Rev. O. Richard Bowyer recalls his time serving on the state Board of Medicine.

This issue also looks back at the 2020 and 2021 Vandalia Award recipients and the 2021 award-winning quilts and wall hangings, sponsored by the State Museum. Finally, Sara Bragg Aikin writes about the Veterans Memorial Museum of Southern West Virginia in Hinton, Summers County.

GOLDENSEAL is published quarterly by the West Virginia Department of Arts, Culture and History. ## The Way We Were, The Way We Are

By Brenda Burke

During the last couple of years, when most of us have been housebound, we have turned to some of our favorite hobbies. I stay so busy with mine, plus teaching, that I don’t have time to get bored. I teach the grandsons after school; I work with my youngest granddaughter (home schooled high school) once or twice a week; I teach, off and on, a little boy on the west coast online... Despite being occupied with the teaching and my hobbies, I continue to read... voraciously...

Netgalley sends me free books to review online... with the Netgalley app or my Kindle app on my iPad. I use the little library here occasionally (I miss the one in Indiana), and my daughter gives me books. She receives hundreds of print books free for review... we also go to a couple of little used bookstores here locally...

I don’t remember a time when I did not read. Mother used to tell me to go outside for sunshine and to play with the neighbor kids... I took a quilt, a book, and I sat under the big shade tree in the front yard... that was my idea of having fun.

The bookmobile was a gift to me... I used to carry those paper bags from Billups’ Store and the A to Z and the librarian filled them completely for me... neighbors would chuckle when they saw this little girl trudging up the street, arms full... books... my ticket to other worlds.

School libraries (plus Mrs. Ellis at the elementary school...) provided me with reading material... Mrs. Duke (junior high) used to let me go to the library every day after we finished our work in speech class... always checking out books.

It doesn’t matter to me if the books are in print or online... Kindle... Netgalley... it is all the same to me... I read and reread.

My favorite books in 2020 were: HAMNET... sent to me by the little boy I tutor... his mom in Washington State... and THE BOOK LADY OF TROUBLESOME CREEK... given to me by my daughter. The first book is about Shakespeare, fiction... and fun... the second book is about the librarians who rode books in Kentucky... the

and The Herald Dispatch. Audience members WILL BE REQUIRED TO WEAR A MASK during the production unless actively eating or drinking.

Tickets for CHARLIE AND THE CHOCOLATE FACTORY are $98.42/81.97/71.00/64.42. To see this delicious production live on the stage at the Keith Albee Performing Arts Center contact the Marshall Artists Series Box Office a 304-696-6656. Or order tickets online at Ticketmaster.com. You may also visit our box office located in the Joan C. Edwards Playhouse on the Marshall University campus. Box office hours are Monday through Friday 12 p.m.- 4 p.m.

blue people of Kentucky also... I loved those books... my favorites that year.

Last year, my favorites were STATE OF TERROR, written by Louise Penny and Hillary Clinton... well... no others stand out to me... but I read a couple of hundred last year... I am sure if I looked at Netgalley or my iPad several would come to mind.

I read the LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE books each year. My favorite mystery writer is Carlene Thompson of WV... her new one comes out soon. She is the one author I purchase to read and read and read again... the best stories... many taking places in WV... LITTLE WOMEN is my all time favorite book... my grand and I read Jane Austen together... we love her... I still love Hemingway... I like mystery/thrillers... I do NOT like fluff... and so many of the mainstream female authors are now writing that... I just pass on them...

Christian fiction is one of my favorite genres... Blackstock... Francine Rivers... Beth Moore and her writings are enjoyable also... so many books... so little time...

My new favorite children’s writer is Jonathan Auxier... look for his books at your favorite bookstore and/or Amazon. I did not realize, when I first read his books, that he is the son-in-law of my brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Marshall and Betty Burke. Irony of life... Jonathan is the most talented young writer I have read in the last few years. His books make great gifts for the little ones.

When I read psychological thrillers, I love solving the puzzle... that is what draws me to those books. Historical fiction about WWII is another genre that I can’t put down. I read several of those last year...

Lest my readers think I spend 24/7 reading... I do counted cross stitch, puzzle books, jigsaw puzzles, Bible study... correspondence with several friends... walking six times a day... adult coloring books when my hands can handle that... and don’t get me started on cleaning the condo... especially during a pandemic... I am a fanatic about that... and I cook every day for myself... so... during the next few weeks, go to that lovely little library in Hurricane or the one in the valley... check out some books and start enjoying the time you have... staying home and having fun... the librarians at both will help you make your selections. My reading buddies in WV are Flora Lee, Linda, and Phyllis... if you know them, they will suggest some great authors... don’t forget Debbie Macomber, J. Jance, Patterson, Grisham, Sparks... mainstream writers who still come up with some good ones... enjoy and email me your favorites... we read and read because the way we were is still the way we are... lovers of books...

(1836), and Charles (1838). Elias (married Elizabeth Harbour) and Noah (married Amanda Cooper) were farmer/merchants and owned stores in and around Hurricane. Nancy married James Nichols. Arch married Minerva Jane Wheeler on Oct. 1, 1857. Jane was born in Little Rock, Ark., the daughter of Alexander and Mary Wheeler, and was reputed to be of Cherokee Indian descent. She was born during the “Trail of Broken Tears” episode, so it is possible.

When the Civil War began, Noah enlisted immediately, but Arch enlisted a year later when Capt. Morris Kirtley came through Putnam County recruiting for a new company of Confederate cavalry. He was captured in late 1864 and spent the rest of the war as a prisoner at Ft. Delaware. Arch was a master stone mason, and after the war, he resumed working at this craft, moving often and traveling extensively about the state. Evidence of his skill can still be seen in the chimneys on old farm houses and perhaps on some stone bridges in the Charleston area.

Arch and Jane were the parents of five children: James (1858), Mary (1860), John (1864), Lee (1866), and Andrew (1870). James married Elizabeth Garrett and followed the craft of his father as a stone mason and farmer. They were the parents of nine children, including three sets of twins: William, Hezakiah, George, Jeff, Myrtle, Owen, Ola, Guy and Nye. James also had two sons by a second marriage - Ernest, who lives in Milton, and Henry, who lives in Beckley. William, who married Neta McAboy, was perhaps the most prominent Wheeler to live in Hurricane. In 1925, he began operating a grocery store on Main Street that was later owned by Delmar Pullen. When water and sewer came to town in the early 1930’s, Bill moved across the tracks to the old McCallister store building and opened a plumbing and hardware business. He plumbed most of the houses in town and wired many of them for electricity. He continued to operate the business until his death in 1962.

George married (1) Ollie Elkins and worked for the gas company. Their children were: Finley, Broad, Asa, Waldo, Arta, Arlie, Sherman and Fred. George married (2) Alice Johnson Campbell and their children were: Tom, who married Lois Hodge and lived in Hurricane; Lossee, who married Maria Steed and moved to Oregon, and are the parents of Michael, Mary Ann, Angela, Joseph and Elizabeth Jane; Jane, who married Okey Miller, lives in Hurricane and their children are Wayde, who married Robin Curtis and lives in Kentucky, and Sandy, who married Biff Larch and they are with the Army in Germany; and Charles, who married Marie Faulkner and lives in Hurricane. Their children are Rhonda, who attends Marshall University, and Tommy, who attends Hurricane High School. The Wheeler heritage lives on today.

present, and children were given instructions on how to deal with house fires and other emergencies.

Health Net landed a helicopter on the bank parking lot early in the day, and 96.1 Superstar Country did a live broadcast during the event.

There were also several obstacle courses for children, as well as a fire relay race where participants used real fire hoses to knock down fake flames. Fire departments would allow gardeners to save money on supplies, as well as give new purpose to ordinary household garbage.

Bowen also discussed how table scraps could be used as compost to help improve garden soil. He suggested saving eggshells and grinding them up to add calcium to the soil. Coffee grounds also add nitrogen to the ground, helping tomatoes, potatoes, onions and roses grow. He also suggested keeping fruit and vegetable scraps away from the garden so that rabbits would eat the scraps instead of the garden.

During the workshop, Bowen demonstrated the proper way of using pre-made seed starter mix: by adding water to the mix before planting seeds, as the dry nature of these types of potting soils actually repel water at first. Gardeners can purchase biodegradable planters, or make their own with cardboard egg containers or by drying wet newspapers in muffin tins to give them shape.

As part of the hands-on portion of the demonstration, Bowen led both children and parents in mixing up seed starter and planting parsley and cilantro seeds to take home. He also led his audience in making hummingbird and butterfly seed bombs which can be dropped on the ground and planted anywhere. These seed bombs are made by combining wet potting soil, air dried clay, and seed mixture, and then rolling the dough-like concoction into balls. The seeds begin to germinate within the balls and the rain will wash the soil away, leaving the seedlings behind.

Bowen is a nutrition educator and registered dietician who gives healthy living presentations in area schools through the K-2nd nutrition education grant through the USDA. “The Marshall University Nutrition Education Program encourages healthy lifestyle changes early in life,” he says. “We like to engage the entire county through community events, and appreciate the library for partnering with us to help make sustainable changes.”

The “Healthy Earth, Health You!” presentation was part of the Putnam County Library’s Earth Week celebration.

Jokes From Linda

Submitted by Linda Lavender Armstead

What is it called when a snowman has a temper tantrum?
A meltdown.

My friend went bald years ago but still carries around the old comb with him. He just can't part with it.

What gets wet while drying?
A towel.

When walking by a repair shop the other day, I noticed a sign hanging on the door that read, "We can fix anything, but please knock on the door. The bell doesn't work."

Did you hear about the man who read so many terrible things about sugar and junk food being bad for his body?
He made up his mind that there would be no more reading for him.

A Riddle

By Hannah Marie
Submitted by Sofia Courtright of Hurricane

NOTE: Unfortunately, the answer to the riddle was omitted from last week's paper, so we are republishing the riddle. The answer can be found somewhere on this page.

I'm a strange contradiction; I'm new, and I'm old,
I'm often in tatters, and oft decked with gold.
Though I never could read, yet lettered I'm found;
Though blind, I enlighten; though love, I am bound,
I'm always in black, and I'm always in white;
I'm grave and I'm gay, I am heavy and light—
In form too I differ - I'm thick and I'm thin,
I've no flesh and bones, yet I'm covered with skin;
I've more points than the compass, more stops than the flute;
I sing without voice, without speaking confute.
I'm English, I'm German, I'm French, and I'm Dutch;
Some love me too fondly, some slight me too much;
I often die soon, though I sometimes live ages,
And no monarch alive has so many pages.

Babies

Submitted by Brenda McClanahan of Poca

God gives us babies innocent and sweet and pure, a delicate child He lays at mother's feet
A little ball of clay and thus we mold it and shape
it to be just like us,
So heed what I say and watch what you do, for in that child you may see a reflection of you. Please make it a good reflection.

The Pickleball Courts Are Open

Ginny Hart and Sherry Hayes (in the front court) take on Monk and Barb Collins.

Pickleball has been described as tennis in slow motion. The courts are about one-third as large as a tennis court and the ball travels about one-third the speed of a tennis ball. The ball is similar to a wiffle ball in design but is harder and smaller.

To win a match, a player or a team must win two of three games. The first to score 11 points is the winner unless the previous score was tied at 10.

Rules of the game: Pickleball

Pickleball is a racquet sport that combines elements of tennis, table tennis and badminton. It is played on a court that measures the same as a doubles badminton court and uses a ball similar to, but smaller and harder than, a wiffle ball. The game can be played indoors or outdoors. The National Senior Games pickleball courts are inside the Cleveland Convention Center daily through Thursday.

IN TIMES OF NEED

Istockphoto

Once a necessity, the little outhouse stands now as a reminder of times past. Today, the outhouse has been replaced by modern conveniences. There are some necessities that can never be replaced or improved upon; they are not tangible, but of the heart and the spirit. One of these is prayer...as necessary in our lives today as it was a thousand years ago. When we go to God in prayer, we take time from our busy lives to listen for His ever-present guidance. Our Heavenly Father can never be replaced by modern conveniences. Give your attention to prayer and weekly worship, put your faith in the unchangeable, put your faith in God.

Glory of the New Covenant

II Corinthians 3:7-18

Paul was moved by the Holy Spirit to write to the Corinthians concerning the difference between God’s relationship with believers under the law and under the new covenant. The Apostle introduces the difference by announcing that the Corinthians are an epistle written, not with ink, but, with and by the Spirit of the living God upon fleshy tablets of the heart (v. 3).

In verse 6, Paul states that God “hath made us able ministers of the new testament.” He, further, declares that God did this, not by letter, but, by the Spirit. In the closing words of the verse Paul reveals why God chose to make “us able ministers” by the Spirit — “. . . the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.”

All that Paul wrote was given to him by God for God’s purposes. God desires that all believers know and act upon that the Spirit has done.

In verse 7 and 8, Paul refers to the law which God gave Moses as the ministration of death and the new covenant as the ministration of the Spirit.

Why does Paul label the law as the ministration of death? In Romans 7:10, the Apostle states, “The commandment which was ordained to life, I found to be unto death.” Man cannot join himself to God by keeping the law because no man can undo his sin. To keep the law one must be as God. In Genesis 3:5, Satan told Eve that she could be as God by disobeying God. Eve believed Satan’s lie and disobeyed. One cannot be as God by disobeying God. God gave the law to men such that we might know that we are separated from Him. Hence, the law which was ordained to life was found to be unto death because all have sinned.

The law, the ministration of death, was written upon stones. The law was glorious — too glorious for the children of Israel to look upon the face of Moses (see Ex. 34:29-35). The veil upon Moses’ face prevented the children of Israel from seeing the glory which God bestowed upon Moses. The new covenant is the ministration of the Spirit (v. 8). The glory of the new covenant is greater than the glory of the law because Jesus fulfilled the law (see Matt. 5:17). The new covenant was not revealed until Jesus removed the veil by fulfilling all righteousness. The glory of the ministration of the Spirit is magnitude upon magnitude greater than the glory of the law because the Spirit reveals that which the law masks.

In verse 9, Paul uses new names to refer to the law and to the new covenant. The ministration of death is the ministration of condemnation and the ministration of the Spirit is the ministration of righteousness. These new names declare the difference between the glory of the law and the glory of the new testament. The glory of condemnation is pale and weak and does not compare to the glory of righteousness.

“For if that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious” (v. 11). The glory of condemnation has been replaced by the glory of righteousness. The glory of righteousness is seen in Him who was without sin. Jesus came, not to destroy the law, but to fulfill it. Jesus replaced the glory of condemnation with the glory of righteousness.

Paul was God’s messenger to the Corinthians and us. God wants us to know that we are bathed in the glory of His righteousness — a righteousness that is without veil.

Because there is no veil, we see that which the children of Israel could not. In verse 14, the Apostle states that the veil remains before the eyes of Israel and Israel is unable to hear when Moses is read (v. 15). The blindness of Israel remains, even now, almost two thousand years after Paul wrote this epistle.

There is, however, good news for Israel. The veil shall be removed when Israel turns to the Lord (v. 16). Believing God changes one’s relationship with God from condemnation to that of righteousness.

In verse 17, Paul states, “Now the Lord is that Spirit.” That Spirit is of righteousness. Christ is the righteousness who satisfied the law and has made us free of the law. In Him, we have liberty. The condemnation of the law is put to no effect.

In the closing verse, Paul state that “we all” —all believers— are changed into the same image from glory to glory by the Spirit of the Lord. His righteousness has been given to us. The image that we behold in a mirror is that which God sees. The Father sees that which the Son has done. We see His glory, the glory of life everlasting, life with Him.

Let us share that which we have received.

WVDA Issues Consumer Warning Regarding Illegal Hemp and Marijuana Products

The West Virginia Department of Agriculture (WVDA) has issued a consumer protection warning regarding illegal hemp products being sold in West Virginia retail stores. Recently, the WVDA has become aware of illegal products containing non-naturally occurring cannabinoids, as well as counterfeit recreational marijuana. The Department is urging consumers not to purchase these products as the WVDA works with law enforcement to immediately remove all illicit and counterfeit products.

“Other states have issued similar warnings about these illegal cannabis-infused edibles packaged as popular food and candy products. The actors we have seen in West Virginia are hiding marijuana labeling with stickers or claiming their products are Delta-8,” said Commissioner of Agriculture Kent Leonhardt. “The products are unsafe and present a risk to public health and safety. We hope to tackle this issue with the assistance of law enforcement.”

The WVDA regulates all hemp products and/or hemp derived cannabinoids entering West Virginia's retail supply chain. Under West Virginia law, contaminant/potency testing, product registration and retail cooperation has been designed to ensure hemp products are safe for human consumption.

Children who may ingest these products could experience a variety of delayed symptoms upon ingesting cannabis edibles, including, but not limited to difficulty breathing, lethargy, dizziness, nausea and loss of coordination. Products found in West Virginia retail locations have affixed legal Delta-8-THC stickers over both the California recreational marijuana symbol and the controlled substance government warning.

“The WVDA issued a non-naturally occurring cannabinoid product notice in October 2021. The WVDA has great concern that the contents pose great risk to the consumer and urge the public to not purchase them,” said Amie Minor, the WVDA Director of Regulatory and Environmental Affairs.

The WVDA's notice stated the Department had become aware of non-naturally occurring cannabinoid products entering the West Virginia retail supply chain. Products that contain non-naturally occurring cannabinoids, such as “Tetrahydrocannabinol acetate (THC-O, ATHC, THC-X, Delta 8-O)” are not under the regulatory authority of the WVDA and cannot be registered for sale with the WVDA. Any non-naturally occurring cannabinoid products must be removed from retail sale immediately and are considered a controlled substance.

Mark Twain Reenactment At W. Va. State

West Virginia State University (WVSU) will host a reenactment of famed American author Mark Twain on Friday, April 29, at 10:30 a.m. in the Ferrell Hall Auditorium.

WVSU students, faculty, staff and high school juniors and seniors from throughout the region have been invited to attend the event.

Born Nov. 30, 1835, in the small town of Florida, Missouri, with the given name of Samuel Langhorne Clemens, Mark Twain achieved international acclaim for such works as “The Adventures of Tom Sawyer,” The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn,” and “A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur’s Court.”

Twain passed away on April 21, 1910, but has a following still today. His childhood home is open to the public as a museum in Hannibal, and Calavaras County in California holds the Calavaras County Fair and Jumping Frog Jubilee every third weekend in May. Other towns celebrate his life with Liar’s Contests, public readings of his works, and even reenactments of his funeral.

Bob Gleason is the reenactor who will portray Twain. Trained in theater at West Chester University, Gleason is a popular performer at schools, museums, historic sites and libraries across the country. In addition to Mark Twain, he has portrayed other historic figures such as Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Edison, Alexander Graham Bell and Edgar Allan Poe.

Following the reenactment, high school students will be given tours of the WVSU campus followed by an assembly where scholarship presentations will be made to qualifying students who have committed to attend WVSU in fall 2022.

Eigth Graders Compete in West Virginia History Bowl Finals

The West Virginia Department of Arts, Culture and History (WVDACH) held its 13th annual State History Bowl Championship on Tuesday, April 26, at the Culture Center, State Capitol Complex in Charleston. Twenty-four teams of West Virginia eighth graders from 19 schools in 12 counties vied for the championship title.

The double-elimination tournament included lightning rounds and team rounds featuring questions about state and county culture, geography, government, heritage, history, literature, sports and tourism prepared by the staff of the department’s Archives and History section.

The Archives and History staff developed more than 2,000 questions for its online Quick Quizzes. Teams preparing for the tournament used the Archives and History Daily Trivia and Quick Quizzes as helpful tools from the department’s website at <https://wvculture.org/agencies/archives-and-history>

Eighth graders in public, private and home-school education programs are eligible to compete on the four-person teams in double-elimination tournament play. The regional winner and runner-up team from each district and the top eight teams from a play-in competition will compete in the tournament final.

The play-in competition was held to accommodate schools that were unable to compete in their regional round because of inclement weather and school closings. It also was open to all schools throughout the state that wanted to get a second chance in the History Bowl tournament.

Putnam County schools representing Region 3 were Winfield Middle School, Champion, and Hurricane Middle School (Putnam County), Runner-Up.
