Putnam Offers Choice in 4th of July Venues

By Ron Allen

Monday, July 4th, features two Independence Day venues. Both the City of Hurricane and the Town of Buffalo will celebrate the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence with their annual 4th of July parades, day-long activities and entertainment, and 10 p.m. fireworks.

The day at Buffalo kicks off at 8 a.m. with a 5K Walk/Run at the Town Hall. At 9 a.m., the focal point of activities shifts to Buffalo High School for the annual BHS Football Boosters' Car Show. The Buffalo parade is slated to step off from the Church of God in Harvey Town at 1 p.m.

Festivities in Hurricane commence at Bridge Park on Midland Trail at 2 p.m. with the 4th of July Parade. The parade will proceed from Hurricane Middle to Main Street and end at First Baptist Church.

After the parade, City Park becomes the site of action. Following the National Anthem at 3:30 p.m. will be the Magician Mark Wood Fun Show and then the Farley's Hot Dog Eating Contest at 5:00 p.m. Free offerings at the park include cotton candy, sno cones, ice cream, and watermelon. Additionally, there will be periodic hot dog giveaways and 1,500 free t-shirts. Activities include inflatables, water slide, Euro Bungee, petting zoo, and sand art. Between 6 and 8 p.m. Eric Burgett will be on stage.

The City expects a large crowd and suggests that attendees park at Hurricane High School and use the free shuttle service to City Park.

In Buffalo, following the parade, its all-day food, vendors, raffle booths, and inflatables. From 2 p.m. to 10 p.m., its all-day singing with Randy Parsons (2 p.m.), The 3 Amigos (2:20 p.m.), The Mark IV (3:15 p.m.), T & R Express (5 p.m.), and The Highlanders (7 p.m.).

The Hurricane Fireworks will be set off from Water Tank Hill behind the Middle School and may be viewed from a wide variety of locations.

'Unsafe At Any Speed'

Right: The pothole depth measures 7 inches.

By Ron Allen

The book, "Unsafe at Any Speed", by consumer advocate Ralph Nader, is not about Hurricane Creek Road but Nader's title applies.

What makes the road unsafe is two ever-changing and ever-deepening potholes. The potholes, ironically, were created by slip-correction construction funded by Gov. Justice's Roads to Prosperity Program.

One pothole is near the Bill Gibson residence (2861 Hurricane Creek Road) and the other at Bud Beaver's (2253 Hurricane Creek Road).

Both are 6 to 8 inches deep and it is necessary to come to a complete stop to maneuver around them.

One local resident reported that he has contacted the Department of Highways in Hurricane repeatedly during the past 9 months to try to have an asphalt patch placed over these graveled areas.

The number for the Hurricane Department of Highways is 304-562-6641. Callers should ask for Jessie. Residents who drive the road everyday are extremely frustrated. Hopefully, the DOH will correct these two hazardous areas.

Farmers Market Visits Food Truck Friday

By Betsy Allen

Local artist Tonja Runion had a booth at last week's Food Truck Friday in Hurricane, where she promoted the Putnam Farmer's Market. Runion, who is a regular vendor at the market, paints scenes inspired by the natural beauty of West Virginia. Her paintings are done in a realistic style, and feature bold, saturated colors. In addition to being part of the Putnam Farmers' Market, she is also a juried artist at Tamarack.

Runion enjoys painting landscapes, seascapes, and wildlife scenes. She says that she considers the landscape and nature art of Abraham Hunter - who mentored under Thomas Kinkade - as one of her inspirations. She also relates that she has always loved Norman Rockwell's work, even though her own style is nothing like his.

In high school, Runion carried a sketchbook everywhere she went, but later in life, she got away from art. In 2015, she began painting, and has been at it ever since.

"Find what you love and do that," she says. "I think that's how we make a difference."

In addition to showcasing Runion's art, the Farmers' Market booth at Food Truck Friday featured a basket filled with over $300 worth of products from the market that was being raffled off as a benefit for Lisa Mack Harrison, who is also a vendor at the Farmers' Market. Harrison, who is also known as the Doodlin' Roo, faces many medical and funeral expenses for a deceased family member. The raffle ends at 12:45 p.m. on July 2nd at the Farmers' Market.

The Farmers' Market is also raising public awareness about their recent move to the field near the Exxon on Route 34 in Teays Valley. After many years at Valley Park, the market outgrew the space available and needed to find a new location.

"I would encourage everyone to check out the market," said Runion. "They might be pleasantly surprised. There is much more than just produce there."

Children Make 'Discovery on Adventure Island'

By Betsy Allen

Bethel Baptist Church of Hurricane Creek Road recently finished up its annual Vacation Bible School. The VBS program, which had the theme of Discovery on Adventure Island: The Quest for God's Great Light, was held June 20 through 24. The program allowed children to learn about the Bible as they explored a make-believe island. Denise Erwin, VBS director, and assistant LuAnn Searls acted as lighthouse keepers on the island by helping the children find Infinity Lanterns representing love, trust, faith, joy and hope. Each evening, the children used a homemade map to solve a riddle that was related to the theme of the lesson. For example, one of

Meet Some of Hurricane's Oldest Families

In 1988, The Centennial History of Hurricane, WV was published to commemorate the town's 100th anniversary. In 1994, the Centennial Committee published a follow up book which included family histories which were not submitted in time for the 1988 Centennial History. This week's selection is the introduction to the family histories and first history from The Centennial History of Hurricane WV Continued — 1994.

Introduction To Family History Section

One of the more popular features of the 1988 Centennial History of Hurricane book was the family history section. While researching their histories, some writers learned things about their families they had not previously known. Conversely, some readers also learned more about their families from reading the histories. One reader remarked, "I didn't know

Bonnie's Bus to Offer Mammograms in Charleston

Bonnie's Bus mobile mammography unit will visit Kanawha County offering three-dimensional (3D) digital screening mammograms and breast care education to women.

A service of WVU Medicine-WVU Hospitals and the WVU Cancer Institute, Bonnie's Bus will be at:

FamilyCare Health Centers in Charleston from noon to 4 p.m. on July 5. For an appointment, call 304-757-6999.

Sissonville Health Center in Charleston from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on July 7. For an appointment, call 304-984-1576.

Patient and staff safety is a top priority, and extra precautions will be taken during the pandemic. These include staff wearing masks, patients waiting in their car until their appointment time, and thorough sanitization between patients.

The screening mammograms are billed to private insurance, Medicaid, or Medicare, if available. Patients who are underinsured or uninsured and meet enrollment criteria will be assisted in enrolling in the West Virginia Breast and Cervical Cancer Screening Program (WVBCCSP) to cover the cost of their screening mammogram. Uninsured women living in West Virginia who are 40 and older can receive a free screening mammogram on the Bus through the generosity of grant funding and donations. A physician's order is needed for a mammogram.

Bonnie's Bus has provided more than 25,000 mammograms for women throughout West Virginia and led to the detection of more than 125 cases of breast cancer since 2009. Many of those screened are underinsured or uninsured and qualify for screening through the WVBCCSP.

Bonnie's Bus works in collaboration with a statewide partnership of clinicians, public health professionals, women's groups, and other community leaders working to help reduce the number of deaths from breast cancer in West Virginia.

Made possible by a generous gift from West Virginia natives Jo and Ben Statler to the Cancer Institute, Bonnie's Bus is operated in partnership with WVU Hospitals. The Bus is named after Jo Statler's late mother, Bonnie Wells Wilson.

For information on Bonnie's Bus, see WVUCancer.org/Bonnie

2023 Statewide Folklife Apprenticeship Program

The West Virginia Folklife Program, a project of the West Virginia Humanities Council, is now accepting applications for its statewide Folklife Apprenticeship Program. The program supports West Virginia master traditional artists or tradition bearers working with qualified apprentices on a year-long in-depth apprenticeship in their cultural expression or traditional art form.

These apprenticeships of traditional music, dance, craft, foodways, storytelling, and more—in any cultural community in the Mountain State—facilitate the transmission of techniques and artistry of the forms as well as their histories and traditions. The award amount totals to $3,500; $3,000 to support the master artist and $500 to cover the costs of tools and materials for the apprentice. Artists and their proposed apprentice must apply together. Applications and guidelines are available at wvhumanities.org/folklifeapprenticeships or by calling state folklorist Jennie Williams at (304)346-8500. Applications are due August 1, 2022.

The West Virginia Folklife Apprenticeship Program will support up to nine pairs of master traditional artists and their apprentices, culminating in a final public showcase in 2023. Folklife apprenticeship pairs will also hold a public presentation in their home communities. "After witnessing several exciting partnerships develop between the previous folklife apprenticeship pairs, we look forward to working with the next cohort who will carry on their cultural traditions and traditional art forms in their communities for generations to come," says state folklorist Jennie Williams. This year marks the third round of the biennial program. The 2020-2021 Folklife Apprenticeship Program awarded seven apprenticeship pairs who practiced a range of traditional art forms including old-time banjo of central West Virginia, heirloom seed saving, and storytelling in midwifery.

The West Virginia Folklife Apprenticeship Program is administered by the West Virginia Folklife Program at the West Virginia Humanities Council in Charleston and is supported in part by the National Endowment for the Arts. West Virginia Folklife is dedicated to the documentation, preservation, presentation, and support of West Virginia's vibrant cultural heritage and living traditions.

For more information on the West Virginia Folklife Program, visit wvfolklife.org and <http://wvhumanities.org/programs/west-virginia-folklife-program/> or contact Jennie Williams at williams@wvhumanities.org or (304)346-8500.

The Way We Were, The Way We Are

By Brenda Burke

Just read the "lizard" column... thanks Flora Lee for mentioning that I do that one...

Summer is rolling along... the family just returned from their Deep Sea Fishing Trip in the Keys and other areas in Florida... I am so happy to have the boys home. We are reading, playing games, and doing school... yes... we do school all summer. We are playing tennis and pickle ball when it is not too hot... love it...

July 4 is here this weekend... some of the Indy group will arrive on the fourth... some will stay a few days, others longer... the family here will go in July for outdoor activities in WV for a few weeks. I am still not traveling until Covid is better... I am happy living in paradise for now...

I would like to be in WV for the fourth... I enjoyed the activities at the park... I especially enjoyed the holiday when everything went on down in the town... even the activities... behind the school and/or in Putnam County Bank lot... such fun... walking around and seeing people... loved it... the last few years, before I moved to Indiana, I have fun going to the huge gathering near the wave pool... saw Patty and Charlie Hogsett, two of my favorites, Mr. Grim, a favorite principal... so many others... fun... fun... miss those days...

The carnival used to be around the 4th and it became too expensive... so we quit going... not a good deal when Camden Park, one of the places my granddaughters loved, was so close, clean, and inexpensive...

July 4th... 1963... making cotton candy and met the love of my life... what an exciting day for me... and for him... oh, those were the days, my friends... almost 60 years ago...

July 4th... a time for picnics, when Mother was alive... not your ordinary picnic... so much food one could not eat everything... we had such a good time with family on that day... I miss it... those were the days, my friends.

July 4th... 1970's... when we didn't get to WV, we watched the fireworks at the park in Circleville with our little ones... those were the best days, my friends...

July 4th... in Washington, D.C., 1986... I was studying at The Folger's Shakespeare Library that month... the fireworks were the best I have ever seen... what fun being right there on the 4th... those were the days...

July 4th, 1992... Myrtle Beach, SC, with my daughter... a difficult year for our family, to say the least... the fireworks over the ocean magnificent... peaceful vacation... those were the days...

July 4th, 2001... The Berkshires, Massachusetts... studying at Shakespeare and Company for a month... don't remember fireworks but the group I was with made the time enjoyable... those were the days...

So many times I have memories of the 4th... last year, here in Palm Harbor, we watched the golf cart parade (lights)... it was so cute... enjoyed that...

Not sure what we will do this year... family will be here... not all of us... two grandgirls will be on church trips... one grandgirl at home in NYC... the rest of us here in Florida... together... either at my pool, at my son's pool, the ocean... whatever we are doing, we will enjoy... I will remember the days of the past... those were the days, my friends, when our family was together, and we had the best times ever... life comes full circle, and now it is time to love and embrace two little boys (the loves of my life)... because the way we were is the way we are... Burkes now and forever... a happy family... Happy 4th to my readers... if you go to the valley, say hello to me to the Hogsetts... and others... if you watch the parade, watch it for me... I did not miss one while I was living in WV... if I was in town... love the parade... and thanks again... a million times to Mayor Edwards... a good man... doing much for our beloved Hurricane... Thank you Mayor Edwards and prayers for you and those who help you...

Available Pets at the Putnam Animal Shelter

These are a few of the many pets up for adoption at the Putnam County Animal Shelter. By the time that this issue of the Hurricane Breeze is published, these animals may have already been adopted and found their forever homes. However, there are many pets at the shelter that still need homes.

For more information, call the Putnam County Animal Shelter at 304-586-0249.

the answers was found in the Old Testament Forest in the town of Genesis. All of the names and places on the map connected with books of the Bible.

Erwin says that she liked the lessons and theme of Discovery on Adventure Island, because it started in the Old Testament and went through into the New Testament. "It was all about letting God's light shine through us into the world," she explained.

Bethel Baptist Church is known for going all out when it comes to decorating the sanctuary and classrooms for Vacation Bible School. In keeping with the Adventure Island theme, everything was decorated with tropical motifs.

Throughout the week, children participated in a coin challenge where they gathered up coins to donate to Camp Cowen, the West Virginia Baptist camp. This year, the boys won the challenge.

attended each night, with the totals being split evenly between children and adults. "We are happy about the people who came out," said Erwin. "Everything was nice and relaxed. The kids enjoyed the stories."

On the last day of the program, children enjoyed a Bible movie on an inflatable outdoor screen. A program was held on Sunday, and the children got a chance to sing songs, say memory verses, and show off the creations they had made during the week.

Investments in Local Food Vital to Fending off Food Shortages

By Kent A. Leonhardt
WV Commissioner of Agriculture

After serving twenty years as Marine Corps Intelligence Officer and five years as the Commissioner of Agriculture, it's easy to identify trends that have the potential to affect the security of the United States. One trend not being discussed enough is the current levels of stress on our food system. Despite our effort to instill resiliency through local agriculture, our leaders have been slow to act. At the WVDA, our worry has always been there may be a time our citizens face higher food prices and potential shortages that could threaten nutrition security. Unfortunately, like most crises, we only respond when the danger is imminent rather than implementing preventive measures in advance. Coming out of a pandemic that shut down food manufacturers, our country now faces higher energy prices, supply chain issues and rising inflation. Combine this with the military conflict in Ukraine, we are now looking straight into a perfect storm.

Day one of the Biden administration entailed a poor energy policy that has not only reversed former trade victories by President Donald Trump but also tripled gas, diesel and fertilizer prices. With government spending spiraling out of control, our country has experienced record inflation which has shrunk wages and increased expenses. Now farmers and truckers are feeling the squeeze on their budgets, forcing many to quit their jobs and hindering the American production of goods.

As the world has shifted towards global markets, we are increasingly reliant upon other nations for commodities. Any disturbance can have an enormous effect on our way of life. For example, Ukraine is rich in farmland and produces an estimated 13% of the world's food calories. As the conflict disrupts their ability to farm, areas reliant on their products will seek other countries to fill the gap. That will strain the world food supply, drive up demand and increase prices for U.S. products. The conflict only compounds the other problems our country faces.

Other agriculture leaders now recognize that higher energy prices, inflation, bad trade deals and conflict overseas leaves us open to a potential food crisis. Although we may not face famine in our country, many of our citizens could face food insecurity. Rural communities will be hit hardest by this crisis, as lack of access and income become a barrier to nutrition. Fortunately, the United States is the second largest producer of agriculture products, so we retain the ability to feed our citizens, but that depends on our ability to get energy prices and inflation under control. Pressure will increase with the cost of inputs forcing the American farmer to choose between shipping goods to areas of highest demand and profit or feeding our citizens.

Despite the inaction from our own state leaders, my team and I have worked to further develop our local food systems. We have rebranded and created new benefits for the West Virginia Grown program, and if funded, we would be able to further help our farmers market their products and expand operations. We have passed laws that deregulated bakery and non-potentially hazardous food items and eliminated burdensome local oversight at farmers' markets. Laws such as the Fresh Food Act, which mandates government funded institutions source 5% of food commodities from local farmers, creates investment opportunities. We have also passed two West Virginia Farm Bills to modernize and update agricultural code. What we are missing is true, hard dollar commitments into those who grow our food.

The good news is it's not too late to respond and mitigate this looming crisis. Our legislators can invest in agriculture, as well as provide relief to our citizens through COVID and surplus dollars. What we must avoid is spending our excess revenue on pet projects. Instead, we need to focus on building resiliency in our State's economy. This includes providing relief to residents by reducing taxes to help cover rising costs and spur economic development. It also includes providing funding to build more self-sufficiency in our local food economy. If our leaders are slow to act, it's my advice you prepare for your family's future by growing your own food. You won't regret it.

The Centennial History of Hurricane

Meet Some of Hurricane's Oldest Families

I was related to so many people in Hurricane."

Due to time and space limitations, many articles and family histories did not make it into the book. Some simply didn't get their articles/histories to the book committee in time and others were not aware of the book was being planned. In any event, the committee determined that there was more than enough material for a follow-up book (Volume II). No particular limitation was placed on family histories and most came in a manageable form. Attention is called to the fact that two histories were submitted that were much greater in length. These are the Kirtley and Matthews Families. The Committee determined that they should be printed as a guide to others who are researching their families and want to record what they find.

The format for recording family history is a personal choice. The content is what is important. Genealogy is more than names and dates, and would include places of origin, movement (where lived), occupation, war service, religion, accomplishment, cemeteries, handed down family stores, etc. The Kirtley and Matthews histories embody all of these.

Several members of the Kirtley Family have collaborated for many years in researching their family. They have told their story in generational sequence, in a second person, narrative, almost biographical form, choosing to highlight some six generations of their family, although they have much more material.

The Matthews story is also told in generational sequence, but combines the telling in both first and second person, and moves between narrative and conversational tone. This history is also noteworthy for its use of collateral families - who married who, who were the parents, who were the brothers and sisters, etc.

So, it is obvious that the formal in recording family history is incidental - writers choice, whatever they are comfortable with. What is more important is that the histories be recorded. The Book Committee hopes that, in printing these histories, not only will the early history of Hurricane and its people be preserved, but that those citizens who have not done so, will be encouraged to begin researching their own families. If you are just beginning your "climb up the family tree," good hunting.

Ferdinand The Bull

By Brenda McClanahan

I'll tell you a tale that's as true as can be
About FERDINAND, the cream colored bull and me.
He was a prime breeding stock, his dad was Charolais
To produce quality calves, he was well on his way.
He had strength and character and was sly as a fox
And his horns were the size of Babe the Blue Ox.
But I didn't feel like Paul Bunyan the day
He was hot on my heels and I ran away.
He scratched his belly on a big cedar tree
That he would straddle each day, it was something to see.

There were logs in the pasture since Bob cut the trees,
He would push them around and he'd move them with ease.

From our trailer window I watched many a day,
A bull and his tinker toys like a small child at play.
He was gentle with people 'til one day he got out,
And was under the apple tree grazing about.
I went for his feed pan to get him back in.
It worked, he followed and I started to grin.

But... when he sniffed that pan and found it was empty,
He had one thought in mind, to stomp on his enemy.
His eyes were blazing, he bucked and he kicked.

There was one thing about him he didn't like to be tricked.

He was bent in the middle and saliva was streaming,
I looked at his face and felt just like screaming.
My knees turned to rubber and went round and round,

In another split second I'd be dead on the ground.
The gap was still down — there was no time to close
it.

I thought, "I'm going to die and this bull sure knows
it."
But I made it to the divider fence in the last nick of time.

I ran out of my shoes and I left them behind.
When I crawled to safety, old Budd was right there.
Biting her fingernails, she had sure had a scare.
She had seen from the window as I ran like an ape,
And she also had witnessed my narrow escape.
With a sign of relief and a quite shaky form,
I suddenly realized I was safe from all harm.
I know this was boring and probably dull,
But its all true, and that's no bull!

Time-Saving Weeknight Meal Solutions

(Family Features) Whether it's long days at the office, calendars full of social commitments or evenings spent enjoying your little ones' extracurricular activities, it's easy to find yourself short on time to spend in the kitchen. Calling on quick and easy mealtime solutions can be just what your family needs to ensure dinners together are always on the menu.

Start with a versatile base ingredient that can be used in a variety of recipes from snacks and appetizers to main courses and sides. For example, you can add protein-packed Success Boil-in-Bag Tri-Color Quinoa to your pantry for a good source of fiber in meals to keep your family moving.

These delicious, bite-sized Beef and Quinoa Meatballs provide a perfect meal prep option for families as they can be mixed and matched with your loved ones' favorite sides from rice to steamed veggies. Adding quinoa to your meatballs is a quick upgrade of plant-based protein that adds flavor to every bite.

Baked in marinara sauce and topped with mozzarella cheese, they're simple to put together before tossing in the oven for an easy weeknight solution. Another tasty hack: turn this dish into kid-friendly sliders by warming dinner rolls right alongside the meatballs.

Beef and Quinoa Meatballs Recipe

Prep time: 20 minutes

Cook time: 25 minutes

Servings: 4

- 1 bag Success Tri-Color Quinoa
- nonstick cooking spray
- 1 pound extra-lean ground beef
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup grated carrot
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons ketchup
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
- 1 1/2 cups marinara sauce
- 1/2 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Prepare quinoa according to package directions.
Preheat oven to 400 F. Coat large baking dish with nonstick cooking spray; set aside.

In large bowl, mix quinoa, ground beef, egg, carrot, onion, ketchup, garlic, soy sauce, salt, pepper, oregano and thyme.

Form mixture into walnut-sized meatballs and arrange on prepared baking sheet.
Bake approximately 20 minutes, or until cooked through and golden brown.

Spoon marinara sauce over top then sprinkle with cheese; bake 5 minutes, or until sauce is hot and cheese is melted.

Remove from oven and sprinkle with parsley.

Tip: Make sliders by slicing dinner rolls in half and placing meatballs on bottom halves. Cover with top halves of rolls and serve.

West Virginia Ranks Fifth Least Affordable State

West Virginia ranks as the fifth least affordable state in the US, with a 3.53% difference between the average wage and cost of living in the state.

The study, carried out by careers board Lensa, analysed the affordability gap in states around the US, comparing the cost of living to the average wage to reveal the percentage difference.

The study also looked into grocery costs, housing prices, the cost of utilities and transportation costs to assess each state's affordability.

You can view the full study here: <https://lensa.com/insights/least-affordable-states/>

Hawaii was the least affordable state in the US with the national average wage being a whopping 20.32% less than the average cost of living. Hawaii also had one of the highest housing spends in the study, spending $13,864 on housing.

Oregon came in second place, with the national wage being 7.01% less than the average cost of living. Oregon also had one of the highest transportation cost scores in the study, spending $12,312 per year.

California and New York are also featured in the least affordable states. California's national wage was only 4.38% higher than the average cost of living. New York's national average wage was only 8.54% higher than the average cost of living.

FURTHER FINDINGS

Virginia was named the most affordable state in the US with the national average wage being a whopping 49.64% higher than the average cost of living. Virginia also had one of the lowest transportation costs, spending $8,716 per year on transport.

Illinois followed closely behind, with the national wage being 44.8% higher than the average cost of living. Texas also ranked in third place with the national average wage being 41.24% higher than the cost of living.

LET FREEDOM RING

"My country 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty, of Thee I sing..."
 With God in our future, the God on whom our country was founded, our future is bright. We must incorporate Him into our lives and the lives of our children. Begin with weekly family worship and then make Him part of each day and each decision. Keep His words in your heart, where they are safe from harm. When you hear the church bells ring this week on God's day... remember that they are bells of freedom. Let them forever ring in our great nation...the United States of America!

BASIC BIBLE

By Ron Allen

Haggai Calls for Faithful Service

Haggai 1:1-11

Verse 1 states that the word of the Lord came to Zerubbabel and to Joshua by Haggai. Zerubbabel was the governor of Judah and Joshua was the high priest. The date upon which the word of the Lord came to the two leaders of Judah was on the first day of the sixth month during the second year of the reign of Darius (520 B.C.). Darius is not Darius the Median who cast Daniel into the lion's den (Daniel 6). Darius the Median ruled over Babylon in 536 B.C., two years after the Persian Emperor Cyrus issued an order allowing the Jews to return to Jerusalem and to rebuild the temple.

The text before us is centered upon the rebuilding of the temple. If we are to hear the message that the Lord would have us hear, we need first consider why the temple was destroyed. The temple was destroyed 66 years earlier by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon. The temple was an outward testimony of Israel's covenantal relationship with God. God's chosen people had broken the covenant time and time again. The temple had become a picture of a covenantal relationship that no longer existed. God used the destruction of the temple to reveal that Israel had severed its relationship with Him. The Lord, however, made it known through the prophet Jeremiah that land ownership would return to the heirs of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob after seventy years of captivity (Jer. 29:10). The temple, once rebuilt, would testify of Israel's restoration to God.

Immediately following their return to Jerusalem from Babylon in 536 B.C., the people began to rebuild. The construction was met with opposition from the Syrian people who inhabited the land north of Jerusalem (see Ezra 4:1-5). The rebuilding effort was halted shortly after the foundation of the temple was completed. Haggai's call in the text before us for Zerubbabel and Joshua to finish rebuilding the temple came after an interruption of about 16 years.

"This people say, The time is not come, the time that the Lord's house should be built" (v. 2). These words, while spoken by Haggai, are not his; they are the words of the Lord God. They are the words of Him who is all-knowing and of Him who looks over Israel. They are the words of the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

The time most certainly was not like the time in which Solomon built the first temple. Solomon's temple was built in a time of plenty. It was built in a time chosen by God. The Lord did not choose for the temple to be rebuilt in a time of plenty. The Lord had withheld rain (v. 11). It was by the Lord's choice that the people should sow much but harvest little (v. 6). It was God's intent that His house be built in a time of need. God called upon Zerubbabel and Joshua to build, in a time in which they would be dependent upon Him to provide the resources needed to complete His house.

"Is it time . . . ?" (v. 4). The Lord, with this question, directs Zerubbabel and Joshua to look upon themselves as a visitor from another land might view them. Strangers would note that Zerubbabel and Joshua lived in luxury. Their homes were ceiled (lined with wood paneling). Strangers would also note that the house of the Lord was unfinished and neglected. The question is self-answering. No time is the time in which one's ceiled home has precedence over the house of God. The time to rebuild is now and now is not a time to let the house of God lie in waste.

"Consider your ways" is God's instruction to Zerubbabel and Joshua in verse 5. This same instruction is directed to all the people of Judah in verse 7. The way of the people is expressed with the words, "The time is not come" (v. 2). The time had not come for the people because they had sown much and harvested little. They had labored but their labor had not produced gain. They were waiting for the Lord to provide increase such that they might build from their abundance. They thought to build as Solomon had built.

In verse 9, the Lord explains why He withheld the gain which they sought. They had placed their personal gain first and the house of the Lord second. The desire of their heart was personal increase. The Lord promises to give the desires of the heart to all who delight in Him (Ps. 37:4). The Lord withheld plenty because they were not delighting in Him. They were looking to themselves and not looking to Him. They were not doing as Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

Abraham, Isaac and Jacob lived by faith. In verse 8, the Lord commanded Judah to go up to the mountain, bring wood, and build the temple. When believers do as the Lord commands, He responds. God takes pleasure and He is glorified. In the specific instance of rebuilding the temple, God was glorified because His people built in faith. The second temple would be a testimony produced by faith. The second temple speaks of the faith of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

The word of the Lord which came by Haggai is the same word which is declared in New Testament scripture: "But without faith it is impossible to please him" (Heb. 11:6). God's message through Haggai is for all believers. When believers act upon faith, God is glorified and He gives increase.

Let us act upon that which we have received. Let us receive the abundance of His love.

Warren Edwin Pauley, 84, of Hamlin, went home to The Lord on April 29, 2022. He passed away peacefully, with his wife and children by his side at home. Anne Gibson, a cherished and beloved friend, was present also.

He was under the care of Hospice of Huntington, Phyllis Brown was the wonderful angel and beloved friend who was his care giver. Laura Henderson was his caring nurse. Many thanks for all that they have done.

He was a son of the late Bradie and Kathleen Pauley. In addition to his parents, he was also preceded in death by his brother, Raymond Pauley; and two sisters, Elaine Pauley and Deborah Vannatter.

He loved the outdoors, deer hunting, fishing, and camping. His passion was cutting wood. He loved singing and had a beautiful bass voice. He was a Deacon at The Hamlin Church of Christ for years and an avid teacher of God's Word. He currently attended Main Street Church of Christ, Hurricane.

Teresa and Steven want it to be known that he was a wonderful father, always having time to spend with us as children. Linda- he was a loving and caring husband for 63 years.

He retired from Union Carbide with 35 years' service. He served in the US Navy from 1955-1959 as a machinist mate. He loved his time in the Navy and was very proud of his service.

Putnam Republican Women Are In The News

By Nancy Bradley
On June 14th, the Putnam County Republican Women presented an American flag and a West Virginia flag to the Valley Park Community Center.

This presentation was on the same day, which is designated as Flag Day, and is a time of celebration throughout The United States! It's a special time to remember why we celebrate the "red, white, and blue," and what it represents—FREEDOM!!! Brave men and women fought, and many died, giving the ultimate sacrifice, in order to defend it! May God help us to NEVER forget!
