This Week: Drop-Off Sites Open For Operation Christmas Child

As the Thanksgiving season approaches, many families and children are giving thanks and giving back—to children in need around the world through Operation Christmas Child.

Shoebox gifts prepared by generous donors and filled with toys, hygiene items, and school supplies may be dropped off now during National Collection Week, Nov. 14 - 21. More than 4,500 drop-off sites are now open. The Samaritan’s Purse project will collect its 200-millionth shoebox this year!

Operation Christmas Child has been collecting and delivering shoebox gifts to children worldwide for nearly three decades. In 2022, Operation Christmas Child hopes to collect enough shoeboxes to reach another 11 million children. This season, there’s still time for individuals, families, and groups to transform empty shoeboxes into fun gifts. The project of Samaritan’s Purse partners with local churches across the globe to deliver these tangible expressions of God’s love to children in need. Find a step-by-step guide on the How to Pack a Shoebox webpage.

“This season, children around the world need a tangible reminder that there is hope and that God loves them,” said Franklin Graham, president of Samaritan’s

The Way We Were, The Way We Are

By Brenda Burke

Thankful...
As we come close to Thanksgiving... I am thankful...
As I watch church online this morning... as I listen to old time gospel music on YouTube, I remember fondly my days, my weeks, my months, my years... my life. For all of that, I am thankful.

I am thankful God brought Mike and me together in 1963, and we had 30 years together...

I am thankful for my children and their spouses... the best the world has to offer.

I am thankful for my five grands... gentle, kind, and good.

I am thankful for my friends...so many...

I am thankful for the opportunity to teach...

I am thankful for the students, the staff, the schools...where I taught...

I am thankful for the gospel singers I listen to... for those I have known...

I am thankful for my Bible... Bible study.

I am thankful for the leaders in the churches who have taught me.

I am thankful for the opportunity to live at the ocean.

I am thankful for the time I lived in Indiana... in Ohio... in South Carolina... in WV... now Florida...

I am thankful for the times I have traveled over this country...

I am thankful for my time in England...

I am thankful for the health I am hanging onto...

I am thankful for my Mother and my family...

I am thankful for the Burke family...my inlaws and the extended Burkes...

I am thankful for this little condo my son bought for me.

I am thankful I can “stand on the promises of God.”

I am thankful for knowing “the master of the sea.”

I am thankful for believing that “when the roll is called upon yonder.”

I am thankful for “Because He Lives...”

I am thankful for “Victory in Jesus.”

I am thankful for “Amazing Grace.”

I am thankful for knowing “what heaven means to me.”

I am thankful for “Beulah Land.”

I am thankful for forgiveness...

I am thankful that I believe...

I am thankful for the angels that watch over us...

I am thankful for the prayers of my family and friends...

I am thankful for “If Jesus Comes Tomorrow.”

I am thankful for my 75 years of life...

I am thankful that my family and I have and are masking, isolating at times, and getting the vaccinations...helping us and others...doing what is meant...

Happy Thanksgiving to my readers because the way we were is the way we are... we are thankful for each other. I pray for you. I hope you pray for me and my family. I miss Almost Heaven WV... so much. I would love to get in the car (or airplane) and hop up there... to walk the streets again... to see the friends I have... don’t take those things for granted... get out and walk up and down the streets of Hurricane... relish in the fact that you are still living there... visit those friends... sit and chat... drink a cup of coffee with Linda and Phyllis... stop and see Flora Lee... go to First Baptist and say hello to Patty and Charlie for me... drop by the high school and say hello to Principal Caldwell... and the staff... Robin if she is still there... thank her for me... Stop and see Mayor Edwards and thank him for his diligence. Maybe drive out Hurricane Creek and visit Beulah Baptist... or please go out to Mount Moriah and say hello... visit the libraries... don’t forget the Hodges’ family at A to Z storage... say hello to Steve at Rappold’s Barber Shop... send a message to Lorraine... eat pizza at Pizza Hut... get some yummy onion rings at the Dairy Queen on 60... so many places... enjoy where you live and be thankful this Thanksgiving that you have all of those near you. Wait a minute... how did I forget? Putnam County Bank... I would say Allen Funeral Home... but we want to wait awhile on that... Greg is the best... # 168,000 West Virginians wait until December 15 before turning on the heat

1 in 10 West Virginians will wait until December 15th before warming their homes.

Winter is coming, in the inimitable words from Game of Thrones, and that means only one thing: it’s about to get colder. With energy prices, inflation and therefore the cost of living on the rise, it is no surprise that many Americans are tightening their belts and cutting their spending. Usually when this happens, it is purchases of non-essential items that are reduced – perhaps trips to the movies, dining out and gym memberships. It appears, however, that millions of Americans will also be cutting back on essential things in life such as heating, in order to save some money.

Service Master Restoration by Zaba surveyed 3,000 respondents to find out how many say they only plan on turning on their heating when average temperatures reach freezing (or the lowest temperature where they live). The survey revealed that 168k West Virginians (12%) will only turn their heating on when average outdoor temperatures reach 32°F.

The company analyzed historical weather data (30 years) from Weatherspark.com and found that average temperatures fall to 32°F in West Virginia on December 15th. Each state is different.

In the 48 lower states, North Dakota is first to turn on the heat. Over 166,000 North Dakotans (29%), have already turned their heating on as temperatures dropped to 32°F on October 24th. And over 1 million hardy Tennesseans will wait until January 7th next year when temperatures reach 32°F before they turn on the heating.

Meet Some of Hurricane’s Oldest Families

shown for him is one dated 1722, a deed of gift from one John Roberts. It is probable that this transfer marked the marriage of Francis Kirtley to Margaret Roberts, the daughter of John and Elizabeth Trammel Roberts.

Upon the home plantation, situated near the Great Forks of the Rappahonnack River, were raised four sons and two daughters: William, Thomas, Francis, James, Sarah Frances and Mary.

Francis Kirtley served as Captain in the French and Indian War (1756) and in all ways seemed to have been highly respected by his peers. Earlier he was appointed one of five constables of Spotsylvania County, was a lieutenant in the Militia 1724630 and further served as a church warden of S. Mark’s Parish. Upon his death’ in 1763, much of his land was sold by the several inheriting sons. Indeed, James Kirtley even bought from his mother her right and title to the plantation “whereon she lives”. He did agree in the same bond to build his mother “a house sixteen feet wide and twentyófour feet long with two rooms and a stack of brick or stone chimneys”, to further care for her in her lifetime.

Jack Frost

By Joan Kyar-Freyholt
Submitted by Myra Simmons

Jack Frost came a sneakin',
One chilly, autumn night.
Wouldn't you know?
He touched everything in sight!

Oh, he paints a pretty picture,
As we see by the rising sun.
The beauty of his work shows,
But not the damage he has done.

The weeds and the flowers,
The tomatoes and the corn,
All were hanging their heads,
By the middle of the morn.

So once again ol' Jack,
Puts an end to the growin'.
He came and went so quietly,
Without his face a showin'!

PLANTED IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD

Winter is just around the corner. The potted plants that sat outside have been carried in before the first frost. Now they shine like emeralds in the sunny window, thriving in the warmth. We experience seasons of “winter” in our lives, when we are overcome with doubt, frozen with fear. We can come into God’s house and warm our hearts. Psalm 92:12-13 promises “...the righteous will flourish...planted in the house of the Lord.”

Obedience Among Neighbors

Leviticus 19:9-18, 33-37

The words before us were spoken by God to Moses in the interim between the setting up of the tabernacle (Ex. 40:17) and the departure of the children of Israel from Sinai (Num. 10:11). In the fifty days between the completion of the tabernacle and the departure of Israel from Sinai, God issued instruction to Moses more than forty times. God’s instruction in Leviticus 19 deals with the manner in which His people were to conduct themselves once they took possession of the promised land.

In verse 2, God states, “Ye shall be holy: for I the Lord your God am holy.” In the specific instruction in the text before us, God links His holiness to manner in which His people are to conduct their everyday affairs.

Verse 9 deals with gathering the harvest. The manner in which harvests were gathered three thousand-plus years ago was much different from modern day methods, but God’s instruction to ancient Israel has application in the affairs of men today. When the fields were harvested and the grapes of the vineyard were gathered, not all grain and not all grapes were to be collected. A portion was to be left in the field and in the vineyard for the poor and for the stranger. The purpose of leaving the grain unreaped and the grapes unpicked was to provide for individuals who lacked resources to satisfy their needs. God did not instruct the owners of the fields and vineyards to give of the produce that their workers had gathered. God instructed the owners to make it possible for the poor and the stranger to help themselves. The poor and the stranger were not given a handout; they were given a means by which they could help themselves. The holy God who said: “Ye shall be holy: for I the Lord your God am holy” requires His people to make a provision for the needy such that they can help themselves. That instruction was given to Israel, but God’s standard of holiness remains unchanged.

God requires New Testament believers to love one another as He loves us (Jn. 15:12). The God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob instructs us to make it possible for those who have not to partake in that which He has given to us. His love is to be shared with all who will receive it.

In verse 10, the Lord states why Israel is (and New Testament believers) are to do as He has commanded: “I am the Lord your God.”

In verses 11 and 12, God specifies the manner in which His people are to be known. His people are to be known by their honesty and by the manner in which they uphold His name. Their conduct, in dealing with their equals, was to be such that an observer outside the camp of Israel would look upon their honest dealings and attribute them to the God which they served. It is God’s intent that the world should know Him through His people.

In verses 13 and 14, God’s instruction turns to the conduct of individuals who enjoy a position which would enable them to victimize others. Neighbors, hirelings and the handicapped, are specifically listed. God forbids His people from engaging in any practice which defrauds, inconveniences or puts others in harm’s way. God says: “... fear thy God: I am Lord.” All who would victimize others will find that they must face God’s judgment. In some instances it is possible to unintentionally place a stumbling block before the blind or to accidentally trade something of low value for that which is of great worth with no intent to defraud. Such happenings do not reflect the holiness of God. Thoughtfulness and diligence are part of the holiness of God.

One is to judge his neighbor in righteousness (v. 15). One is to judge as God judges. God is neither a respecter of the poor or an honorer of the rich.

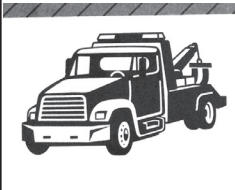

God’s standard for regarding one’s neighbor is spelled out in verses 16-18. Verses 16 and 18 close with the phrase: “I am the Lord.” God holds His people to a standard uncommon to the world because He is God. He is holy and His people must be holy as He is holy. His holiness extends beyond refraining from harmful acts. His holiness requires His people to reach out and to love their neighbor as thyself.

God’s people are to be known for the manner in which they deal with strangers (see v. 33-34). The stranger is to be as one who is native born. God’s people are to regard the stranger as their neighbor. They are to love the stranger as thyself. God would have all men to know His love.

“Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment” (v. 35). This is the same words which the Lord spoke in verse 15. Verse 35 addresses business dealings while verse 15 addressed dealings involving individuals of differing status. God is righteous in all of His ways. Again, God’s people are to reflect His righteousness.

In verse 37, God tells His people to both observe His statutes and to do them. God does not require anything of His people that He does not require of Himself. We, His people, are to extend our love to others as He has extended His love to us. The children of Israel knew Him to be the God who brought them out of Egypt. We are children of the New Covenant. We know Him as the One who made us free from sin. He gave His only begotten Son to die in our place such that He might justify all who believe.

Let us live before men, extending care and concern, such that men may know the God who so loved us, the undeserving.
