Putnam County Library Brings Cardio Boxing to Bridge Park

Jace Heller, founder of Hellafit, provides cardio boxing instruction to youngsters at Putnam County Library's Fitness Friday event at Hurricane Bridge Park.

By Betsy Allen

Hellafit fitness center of 2704 Main Street in Hurricane temporarily moved to Bridge Park on Friday, July 14, to bring cardio boxing outdoors. The event was part of Putnam County Library's Fitness Friday program. Throughout the summer, the Library has been holding Fitness Friday events at various locations throughout the county. Besides the cardio boxing class at Hurricane Bridge Park, previous events included a field day obstacle course at Valley Park; martial arts at Category Five Jiu-Jitsu; yoga at Moxie Fitness; a mindfulness walk at the Putnam County Fairgrounds; line dancing at the Hurricane Bridge Park; and a hike at the Esther Norman Walter Nature Trail on Red House Hill.

Two more Fitness Fridays remain this summer. On July 21, participants can find inner calm with guided meditation and breath work in the peace of the outdoors beside the flowing waters of the Kanawha River. This event will be held in the picnic shelter behind the Buffalo Library, along the same road as the Buffalo Senior Center. The class starts at 10 a.m.

On July 28, the Plymouth/Amherst Natural Wildlife Area hosts the final Friday event. The Wildlife Area is a lesser-known spot for getting outside in Putnam County. This 7,000+ acre protected area is perfect for a hike with family, walking your dogs, or riding your horse. Located just northwest of Bancroft on Rt 62, it is open to the public year-round. The walk will be on mostly flat gravel and dirt, about a mile to a low-water bridge where hikers can dip their toes in to cool off before returning to the trailhead. Meet up at 10 a.m. at 6360 Charleston Road, Red House.

New Arrival for Hurricane Fire & Rescue

By Ron Allen

Hurricane Fire & Rescue took possession of a spanking new Engine 812 on Monday, July 10. The $673,000 vehicle sports the number of the engine which it replaces. The old Engine 812 was purchased new in 1992 for around $150,000.

To the eyes of many, the new Engine 812 looks like the old 812. Not so for members of the Hurricane Fire Department. The new engine features a much larger crew quarters. The larger area provides space to make personal equipment adjustments en route to a call and riding comfort.

The new 812 is packed with power, capacity, and capability that its Consumers paid Sansom to do jobs including general construction, carpentry, plumbing, electrical, drywall, tile, flooring and HVAC, according to the lawsuit.

Anyone who believes they are a victim of this practice or any other scam can call the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division at 800-368-8808 or visit the office online at www.ago.wv.gov.

Putnam County Circuit Court Awards $102K to Victims of Unlicensed Contractor

West Virginia Attorney General Patrick Morrissey reported that a Putnam County Circuit Court judge awarded $101,762.98 in restitution to six victims of an unlicensed contractor on Thursday, July 13.

The defendant, Jason Andrew Sansom, of Hurricane, performed home improvement projects for consumers in Kanawha and Putnam counties, as well as other areas in the state.

"This is a big win for the consumers who were victimized by this unscrupulous businessman," Attorney General Morrissey said. "Let this be a warning to those who are planning on defrauding consumers in West Virginia: cross the line and we're going to make sure there will be enforcement—those who defraud consumers must be held accountable to the full extent of the law.

The restitution will be divided among six consumers (varying amounts).

The Attorney General's lawsuit alleged Sansom took consumers' money and did not start or finish home improvement projects and contracted with consumers to work on projects he was not licensed to perform. He operated his business under the name J. Andrews Revive and Design from September 2020 through April of 2021—after April 26, 2021, Sansom's business went by J. Andrews Design LLC.

Sansom has never had a contractor's license to operate in West Virginia. Despite his lack of a license, he advertised his services through a website, describing his business

Hurricane Area Church Histories

In 1988, The Centennial History of Hurricane, WV was published to commemorate the town's 100th anniversary. The publication included the histories of 16 Hurricane area churches. This week's selection is the 1st of the church histories which were published in 1988.

ADDA BAPTIST CHURCH ON HURRICANE CREEK
 The official date of organization of the Adda Baptist Church was 1871.

It is believed that 1871 was the year in which the second log church was built across the road from where the present church is located. However, the foundation of the church was formed many years earlier. The first church was located where Mrs. Harvey (Ruth) Gibson now resides. The farm was then owned by John T. Harbor. It is believed that our church was named after John's wife, Adda

Where Is That Phone Number?

Public Service Commission Chairman Lane's Column

The Public Service Commission gets hundreds of misdirected calls each year from angry utility customers. They want to pay a bill or ask a question about their service, but they can't find the right number.

Almost every utility lists the Commission's telephone number somewhere on its bill, and frustrated customers often call us by mistake. Then they experience another round of difficulty when PSC operators have to direct them back to reading their bill to find the correct number. You can't pay your bill or change your service by calling the Public Service Commission. You must contact your utility.

So, I have studied five common utility bills. My electric bill is simple to read. On the first page, about halfway down on the right, is a telephone number for making payment by phone. There is also an 800 number for the customer operations center. That's common practice with electric companies.

My gas bill is a little busier, but the front page also includes an 800 number, clearly marked as "general information," for making payments or inquiries. The reverse page provides details on bill paying options and an explanation of charges.

My water bill is from a major utility, so bills from smaller water suppliers may look different. This bill is complex, but about halfway down on the left is an 800 number for customer service.

On my sewer bill, two-thirds of the way down on the left is a bold-faced "customer assistance" note. As with water bills, sewer bills from smaller utilities may vary widely. My cable bill features a block that offers "ways to pay." My provider offers an 800 number, but advises the customer to "upgrade your services and manage your account" by going online otherwise. I did not find a toll-free number to call if one had a complaint.

The Public Service Commission does not regulate internet. If you have a problem with your internet service provider and cannot work it out with the company, you should call the attorney general's office at (304) 558-8986. His website clearly informs citizens that his office handles broadband and internet complaints.

So, there you have it. Hopefully, you can avoid some frustration by taking a minute to look closely at your utility bill and find the correct number to call concerning your problems.

Hurricane Area Church Histories

Adda Baptist Church, Hurricane Creek

The second log church was used for approximately two decades and constantly increased in membership and community importance. So plans were put into action shortly before the turn of the century to build the present Adda Baptist Church. The records of the church from 1871 to 1908 were destroyed by fire in the home of Mr. Lewis Erwin, who was clerk of Adda in 1908. The only knowledge of the past church we have was received from the few older members and pastors.

The year brought about many great blessings, including a great revival with twelve saved and baptized, the youngest being eleven years of age and the oldest seventy-one. Adda has had forty-one pastors. Four pastors (A.L. Cooper, G.L. Eggleton, P.A. Mitchell, and B.V. King) served two terms each. We have also been privileged to license two ministers from our congregation; Laurel Davis in October, 1986 and Charles Moses in January, 1970. Adda Baptist Church has been a spiritual foundation of the community since 1871, and has continued to grow in membership and ministry for Christ for completed in a short time. There have been many improvements throughout the years to beautify our church. Back in the early days, the expense of the church was usually more than the income; but the people always had a vision that the bills would be paid. And so they were.

In 1971, we celebrated Adda's first 100 years (1871-1971) with a Centennial Homecoming on the third Sunday in August. During the day, there was a display of old Bibles and pictures from 1900 to 1971 of the older members and pastors.

Hold On, Grasshopper

By Velma Kitchens of Culloden

Most people love to talk and talk about the other person and their faults, but what about us? We all have flaws. Who in this life is perfect? Not one of us is perfect. We must all come to the realization that all of us are just humans going through this world and we should treat others the way we want to be treated. When I was growing up, my mom taught us we should never make fun of anyone and we didn't. If we were joking, that was one thing, but just making fun of someone, we knew it was wrong.

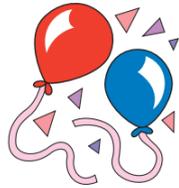

I was not raised in a Christian home, but my sisters and brothers and I were taught to do right. We always had a Bible and we were never allowed to lay anything on top of it. We were taught to have respect for the Word of God. If we did wrong, it was our own fault. My sister and I were talking and we said anything wrong we have done in our lives is not our mom or dad's fault. It is ours. We chose to do wrong and we can't blame anyone but ourselves. Again, no one is perfect.

Don't blame your parents for your wrong, don't blame the teacher for your behaviour, don't blame the police office who pulls you over because you were going 50 in a 35 mile zone. Don't blame your pastor for you not knowing the Word of God. Just don't blame and blame others. Take a look in the mirror, grasshopper, then you might just see who is to blame and ask for forgiveness.

How is your Bible reading going?

5 Steps Toward Heart-Healthy Eating

(Family Features) As the leading cause of death among Americans, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, heart disease often results from uncontrolled high blood pressure, high cholesterol, diabetes, overweight and obesity. However, a heart-healthy eating plan can help lower or control these risk factors and put you and your family on a path toward better heart health.

With back-to-school season adding stress to already busy schedules, it's important for families to make time for healthy eating decisions. Consider these five steps recommended by The Heart Truth program of the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute (NHLBI):

Eat Smart

One way to get started on a path toward heart-healthy eating is to change your way of thinking about how and what you eat. For example, use smaller plates to help limit portion sizes. Chew food slowly and consider the textures and flavors of different food as you eat.

Plan to Eat Heart Healthy

Put together an eating plan that offers a balance of calories and nutrients including vegetables, fruits, whole grains and low-fat or fat-free dairy. Consider make-at-home favorites like Heart-Healthy Pita Pizzas, which include grilled chicken as a better-for-you alternative to methods such as frying.

Choose Healthy Snacks

After a full day of learning or working, it's tempting for children and adults to grab a quick snack that may not be healthy. Swap out sugary or salty snacks and instead enjoy lower-calorie after-school treats that fit into your daily eating plan. Try options like a cup of seedless grapes, small banana, cup of cherry tomatoes, handful of unsalted nuts or half cup of low-fat or fat-free yogurt.

Find Heart-Healthy Menus

How you eat day after day can make a difference in your heart health over time. Developed through research by NHLBI, the Dietary Approaches to Stop Hypertension (DASH) eating plan emphasizes vegetables, fruits, whole grains, fish, poultry, beans, nuts, low-fat dairy and healthy oils to help keep your blood pressure in a healthy range. DASH focuses on lowering sodium and limiting foods that are high in saturated fat, including fatty meats, full-fat dairy and tropical oils.

Stay On Track When Dining Out

It is possible to eat healthy foods in restaurants. To control portion sizes, try tactics like eating half your entree and taking leftovers home for another meal. Choose foods that are broiled, baked or roasted to limit calories. Ask for low-sodium menu options and request butter, gravy, sauces and salad dressings on the side or leave them off completely.

Visit hearttruth.gov to find more healthy eating inspiration and find DASH-friendly back-to-school recipes at healthyeating.nhlbi.nih.gov.

1 tablespoon fresh basil, rinsed, dried and chopped (or 1 teaspoon dried)

Preheat oven or toaster oven to 450 F.

On each pita, spread 1/4 cup tomato sauce and top with 1/4 cup chicken, 1/4 cup broccoli, 1/2 tablespoon Parmesan cheese and 1/4 tablespoon chopped basil.

Separating the Sheep and the Goats

Matthew 25:31-46

Before us are words which Jesus spoke to His disciples three days before His crucifixion. Jesus revealed to them that which shall transpire when He returns. He did not give these words to them for instruction or for a warning. His disciples hardly fit the description given to the sheep or to the goats. The words of prophecy which Jesus spoke are preserved as scripture for God's purposes. God the Father would have all men know with certainty that His Son (the Son of man) shall return, shall bring judgment, and shall sit upon the throne of David in Jerusalem (the throne of His glory, v. 31). This prophecy, however, reaches out to the ears of all who will receive it.

The Father wants all who read His word to know beforehand of the judgment which shall come. The Son speaks that which the Father has given to Him. God said it and it shall come to pass as He has stated. There is no uncertainty. Jesus shall return and rule from the throne of David for one thousand years (Rev. 20:6). When He returns, the scene pictured in verses 31-46 shall unfold.

The nations (v. 32) which are gathered before Him are composed of survivors, individuals who did not perish during the seven-year tribulation (see Matt. 24:22, 29-30). The Son of man (the King) shall divide these individuals into two groups, the sheep group and the goat group. The sheep are righteous and are set on the King's right hand and the goats are cursed and are placed on His left hand.

The King welcomes the sheep into the kingdom which has been prepared for them from the foundation of the world (v. 34). The kingdom which awaits the righteous (who do not perish during the tribulation) is the same kingdom which is reserved for them who have been washed in the blood of the Lamb (Rev. 7:14).

The sheep are righteous because they fed the hungry, gave drink to the thirsty, took in strangers, clothed the naked, and visited the sick and them who were in prison. The King counts that which the sheep did to others as having been done to Him. It is by grace through faith that the church is saved from the judgment to come. During the tribulation the dynamic is different. The judgment has come. Works (resisting the mark of the beast and doing for others) shall be counted for righteousness.

God's word is not read in the same manner by all believers. Some believe that the church shall be taken up and not experience that which the sheep have seen. Others believe that the church shall see part or all of the seven years. God is not the author of confusion. He gives clarity to them who lean not upon their own understanding. Jesus, in speaking to the seven churches in Asia, promised the church at Philadelphia, the evangelic church, that it would not see the hour of temptation — the hour which the sheep shall experience (see Rev. 3:10). The church at Laodicea, the last of the seven churches, was given no such promise. Jesus promised the Laodicean church that it would be tested. Jesus said, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne" (Rev. 3:21).

The sheep were confused when informed that they had given food and drink to the King, had taken Him in and clothed Him, and had visited Him when He was sick and in prison. They had done good. They had done that which is required in the law of Moses but they did not know the King until they met Him face to face and He welcomed them into the kingdom.

To the goats, the King shall say, "Depart from me, ye cursed, into the everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels" (v. 41). The goats are cursed because they did not feed the hungry, or give drink to the thirsty, or take in strangers, or clothe the naked, or visit the sick or them who were in prison.

After hearing that they had not given food and drink to the King when He hungered and thirsted, or clothed Him when He was naked, or took Him in, or visited Him when He was sick and in prison, the goats protested. They challenged the King to cite a time in which they ever saw Him.

The King pointed to the sheep and said, "Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me." Both the goats and the sheep were tested in like manner. The test results, however, were much different. The goats failed the test in that they turned away the sheep (v. 42, 43). The goats had received the mark of the beast and worshiped him (Rev. 14:9, 10) and gave not to the sheep who were unable to buy and sell (Rev. 13:17).

The goats shall go into everlasting punishment (v. 46). The Lord is not willing that any should perish but not all shall repent. Some shall perish (II Pet. 3:9, 10) because they will not repent. In His message to the church at Laodicea, Jesus said, "I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me" (Rev. 3:20).

These things are written because God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son. Only the righteous shall hear.

The Putnam County Library and West Virginia American Water will be hosting a Fitness Friday hike starting at 10 a.m. at the Plymouth/Amherst WMA.

Reagan Schultz On Berea College Dean's List

Reagan Schultz, a resident of Hurricane, has been named to the Spring 2023 Dean's List at Berea College.

A student is named to the Dean's List who achieves a GPA of 3.4 or higher while passing at least four total credits, a course load equivalent to 16 semester hours.

Berea College is distinctive in higher education. Offering bachelor's degrees in 34 majors, including arts and sciences and select professional programs, as well as independent majors designed by students to mirror approved majors at other colleges, Berea College awards four-year tuition scholarships to all its students, who because of financial circumstances cannot otherwise afford a high-quality, residential, liberal arts education.

All students are required to work at least 10 hours per week in campus and service jobs. Berea's student labor program creates an atmosphere of democratic living that emphasizes the dignity of all work and provides opportunities for students to earn money for their rooms, books, and board.

Founded upon inclusive Christian principles in 1855, Berea was the first interracial and coeducational college in the South. The college promotes understanding and kinship among all people, service to communities in Appalachia and beyond, and sustainable living practices that set an example of new ways to conserve our limited natural resources. More information about Berea can be found at www.berea.edu.
